

AUSTRALIA'S ENERGY SITUATION.

The cost of energy & fuel are matters affecting almost everyone in the community.

For years domestic & industrial users have installed appliances & machines on the basis of availability & lower comparative cost of petroleum based fuels. However, events over the past five years have drastically altered this situation. Australia must prepare itself now for the changes which will be necessary when the world, which is so heavily dependent on petroleum products, finds that petroleum is no longer readily available at an acceptable cost. The precise time when oil supplies will be exhausted is not known but as the world parity price rises, the incentive to expand & open up marginal oil wells increases.

Many consumers have been hard hit by the rising cost of fuel. An example of increasing cost to industry is provided by one Tasmanian firm that recently submitted that the cost of using furnace fuel oil as a power source in 1978 was $158 000 but was estimated to be $590 000 in 1980. Conversion to electricity offers no relief in that operating costs provided by the Hydro Electric Commission quotation approximated $1 500 000 per annum after conversion costs. Whilst we are concerned about cost, the question of supply poses a far more pressing problem. In Australia we must still consider ourselves fortunate in that our fuel costs are still substantially lower than those in most other countries & further, to date, we have no rationing.

The adoption of import parity pricing is a responsible policy to encourage more oil exploration, promotion of conservation of fuel, & fostering the development of alternative energy sources.

Australia generally has no energy supply crisis, the degree of self sufficiency is evident in the vast reserves we have of coal, natural gas, uranium & oil shale. However, reserves must be utilized to promote the conservation of petroleum fuels on which much of our industry & agriculture is dependent. Momentarily, Tasmania's energy problems appear greater than those of some other states.

On the mainland Australia possesses an abundance of fuels for generating electricity, particularly which in the long term may be used to supplement our hydro resources through a Bass Strait submarine cable.

Both the Government & Opposition acknowledges that all petroleum products (whether oil, natural gas, of LPG) are, in world & national terms, finite & diminishing resources, inter-related in their usage & therefore inter-related in their pricing. Labor favours a resource tax as a means of collecting the revenue while the Government sees such a move as making fuel dearer than under its import parity pricing policy.

Synthetic fuels are also being extensively researched, & there appears to be some possibility of a proportion of our petroleum fuels being replaced by alcohol produced from various crops. Other measures suggested include increased allocation for oil exploration, an upgrading of public transport systems in principal cities, electrification of railways, providing an incentive for motorists to use alternative fuels & in improving vehicle efficiency. In the present climate because of distances between principal centres, transport costs are rising at unacceptably high rates. Therefore there may be some justification for interim measures to reduce the excise duty on diesel fuel for heavy haulage & on aviation fuels for air transportation.

Although there is no single panacea that will solve our energy problems, Australia is better situated with more alternative resources than most other countries in the world. These envied resources should help us maintain security, providing we pursue our alternatives & give proper consideration to the multiple forms of energy that are available & conserve, where feasible, our petroleum fuels.

The Government is examining measures to ease difficulties arising from certain inequitable effects of parity pricing on some sections of the community & to minimise the impact of the levy on the standard of living. There is also a case for a portion of oil levy excise revenue to be used in general taxation relief.

MENS VOLLEYBALL.

ROUND 8: C.B.A. V ROOSTERS

This game was of a fair standard and must have been an encouragement to C.B.A. as it managed to take a set off Roosters before going down 3-1 (51-40). Best players were "Sleepy" Britton, "Ski" Lodge, "Crumb" Longden & "Sandy" Beach.

SPALDING V ADIDAS:

This resulted in an easy victory to Adidas which came as some surprise as a close game was expected but after a good start Spalding could not get their game together well enough to counter the good teamwork of Adidas. Best were Mike Wright, Les Newman and Murray Gofton. Result 3-0 (45-25)

JETSETTERS V ST. MARYS HOTEL:

Jetsetters only managed to put together two good sets in this match before losing 3-1 (60-39). The Pub continue to improve and when Robert Schier returns they will be very hard to beat. Best players Peter "how did he get into it" Bradley, Stephen Cooke, "Fingers" Johnson & "Truck" Lohrey.

T.R.C. V SUPA VALU:

An easy win 3-0 (45-10) to T.R.C. giving them a boost in their percentage. Best were Stewart Vance & Phillip Midson.

ROUND 9

JETSETTERS V T.R.C.:

This game took an hour & a quarter to decide the winner, which was T.R.C. 3-2 (65-63). This was a better effort by Jetsetters but they found the improving T.R.C. side too good on the night. Some very good rallies were fought during the match with Des Faulkner blocking many spikes by T.R.C. Best were Des, Norman Adamczewski, Phillip Midson, Mike Read & Corny.

ROOSTERS V SUPA VALU:

The first forfeit of the roster (hopefully the last).

ST. MARYS HOTEL V ADIDAS:

This was a very good game but at one stage looked like being a surprise 3-0 drubbing of Adidas with the Pub taking advantage of Adidas being a man short early on and racing to a 2-0 set lead. Adidas with their pride at stake came back well to take the next set 15-0 and the 2 final sets 15-11, 15-9 to take the match 3-2 (68-50). Craig Mitchell played well for the Pub along with Dexter Summers & Rats McDonald while for Adidas the combination of Glenn McDonald & Stan Hardcastle won many points and Les Newman & Terry Targett set up well.

SPALDING V C.B.A.:

After a very even and hard fought 1st. set (17-15) Spalding pulled away from C.B.A. to win comfortably 3-0 (47-29). Best were "Eric" Jupp, Murray Gofton, "Whisper" Bradbury and Ross Jenkins.

ROUND 10

ST. MARYS PUB V SPALDING:

This was a real thriller, lasting well over an hour, with neither side able to take command of the game. With the game at 2-2 and Spalding leading 11-3 in the final set the end looked in sight for the Pub but somehow they got back into the game and slowly overtook the Spalding side to win the last set 16-14. The final scores being 3-2 (66-69). Derek Summers hit some very good winning spikes early in the match and was well backed up by Craig Mitchell while it was a very good team effort from Spalding with Mark Richards & Clive Jupp both lifting their games on previous performances.

ADIDAS V SUPA VALU:

Adidas 3-0 (45-21) "great game"

T.R.C. V C.B.A.:

A good performance from C.B.A. managing to take a set off T.R.C. before going down 3-1 (57-43). Best players were not listed.

JETSETTERS V ROOSTERS:

Quite an exciting game if not all that brilliant with Roosters just taking out the match 3-2 (66-68). This loss now makes it 4 on end that Jetsetters have lost and have now slipped from 2nd to 6th. place. Best were Shorty Hall, Ron McCarty and "Goose" Cornelius.
