A CASE AGAINST PORNOGRAPHY.

The video pornography debate has produced some unusual alliances. Formerly antithetical feminists and religious groups have united in their campaign to outlaw the sale and hire of X-rated pornographic material... Meanwhile, civil libertarians and the recently formed Adult Video Industry Association of Australia oppose any measures to limit private adult viewing of video porn, presumed to occur in the confines of the home.

The association has forecast a $15 million loss to their industry and threatened reduced taxation revenue and unemployment if pornographic material is taken off the market. Profit is the obvious motivation behind this group's mobilization and their arguments to legitimise pornography is rather feeble.

Pornographic material is not difficult to obtain, despite assertions to the contrary by vested interests. Classification of X-rated video pornography is voluntary, which means that, until apprehended, a supplier may freely sell unclassified material. What's more, children have no difficulty operating video machines and can arrange unsupervised viewings. It is a fallacy that legislation can guarantee inaccessibility to children.

Pornography denegrates women. It portrays them as objects, for sexual gratification and domination. Pornographic material often depicts women bound and gagged-silenced against abuse and violence.

Mutilation and murder following sexual abuse is frequently part of pornographic content. There is conclusive evidence that the abuse supposedly 'performed' on the screen is sometimes real and not acted. This refutes the argument that the actors are always willing participants and adds to the severity of the issue, given the involvement of a criminal element.

Proponents of pornography have argued that there is no statistical proof linking exposure to pornography with the incidence of pornography.

'desensitisation process'..... when, after constant exposure to X-rated pornography, initial abhorrence diminishes to the point where sexual violence is viewed without any reaction.

The social consequences of this phenomenon are frightening. Desensitised individuals are also unaffected by acts of rape and violence they may hear reported, or even witness. Rape and violence then gain respectability.

Australia's video pornography is largely imported. However, as demand for this material increases, perceived profit potential could see Australia becoming a porn producer. The case for uniform legislation that outlaws pornography is further strengthened due to this possibility.

It is utterly contemptible that the people who so actively oppose the sale and hire of X-rated pornography are dismissed as a "wowsers minority" by those who profit from pornography. Respect for women and abomination of violence should not be categorised as 'trendy' or 'untrendy' qualities. It should be the status quo...

POST OFFICE NEWS:

In the near future Peter and myself intend to number the houses in each street in the main town area. When we have completed the project you will be advised of what your number will be and would be a great help to us if you could display your number prominently. Also, when corresponding with your friends or business people, please advise them of your street number, this is a great help to us when sorting your mail.

You have probably realised by now that we have planted our colourful few plants again this year. It would be appreciated if those kind people who love weeding our garden, would they please pull only the weeds and not the flower plants. A good idea for Christmas gift for the kids or any of your friends, is the new stamp beginners kit, which is now on sale at the Post Office.

MY OLIVER STORY

by Sarah Rubenach, Grade 2

Last night Oliver was on. He said "I want some more." The man said "What?" Oliver said "I want some more." The man said "Get him and sell him." One man said "I will have him, Oliver you can sleep under this." Oliver opened the door, a boy was there. The girl fell in the coffin so Oliver opened the door and went away. Oliver was in London Town, he sat down. Then a boy passed by. He said "who are you?" Oliver said "I am Oliver". "You can come with me." said the boy. So Oliver went with the boy to a man. He showed Oliver how to pick a pocket, so Oliver went with two boys. Oliver got taken away to a home. Next one girl took Oliver and a man stabbed the girl. The girls fell to the floor and the man got Oliver. Some police got the man and shot him. Then Oliver went to his grandfather to live for ever and ever. So that is where Oliver lived all his life. Oliver stayed in London Town for ever and ever.

Then I went home and got dressed for bed. I went to bed. I think Oliver was good. When I went to bed I couldn't stop thinking about Oliver because Oliver was so good.

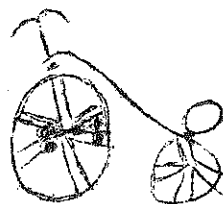

I am a kangaroo. I can jump 7 metres. This is as tall as I can jump - 7 metres. I have big feet. I am a father kangaroo. When I was a joey I liked people but now I don't like people. I have big ears to listen with. I have little hands on the front of me. I never never never get naughty. So I am very very very very very good. So I think I am the best kangaroo in the whole wide world. I have a long tail and I have a sticky tail. The end of my tail is pointy. I have a long nose. The back legs are the pushing ones. I am not very furry but rabbits are very furry. Kangaroos live in the bush, most of the bushes are tall and some bushes are small.

WHEELS

by Fiona McNaught, Grade 1

Long long ago a man invented how to make the first wheels. They saw a log rolling. The first wheels were half made. But they had to make the holes. The holes had to be chopped out of the big circle. It had to be a triangle and it has little specks in it. Wheels are useful things. They can be used to carry lots of people and children. Wheels can be on trains, cars, trucks, vans, vehicles and buses and lots more things. Some vehicles get flat tyres. Bicycles sometimes get flat tyres so they have to get a pumper to pump it up. Some people have to travel by buses or vehicles and a double decker bus, even a city train can travel lots of miles even 2 miles. Even tractors have big wheels and a plane, an ambulance, an axle, a clock, a spring wheels, a jet, a grader and a windmill. Wheels are very, very important, because they do very - very - very - very - very - very hard work. Some wheels are on trains.

OLIVER

Did you see the St. Marys District High School production of "Oliver"? If you did, I have no need to tell of the talent and dedication of the children of this school; not only on stage, but in the orchestra, and behind the "bright lights".

This is my opportunity to thank the enthusiastic and industrious team who made our annual school production so successful.

If you were unable to see this performance, you missed a rare opportunity of viewing the culmination of the efforts of children from the Fingal Valley who worked so hard to give you entertainment of a high standard.

I thank those members of the Community who have praised the efforts of this school, and my gratitude especially goes to the staff members who have been involved with supervising classes while rehearsals were in progress, the teachers who worked so co-operatively with the children and more importantly, the children, whose performance proved that our community is very much alive. If this annual effort is any indication of the sustained perseverance of our youth, there is great hope for the future.

Prue Wardlaw

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to all concerned at the St. Marys District High School with the production of "Oliver". For a small town, we are all most fortunate to have so many talented young people. It was a very entertaining and enjoyable evening.

Atholie Webb.

I understand that the public who did take the opportunity to view this production of "Oliver" were a bit like Oliver - they wanted more. Well done and thankyou for the time and effort.

PRESS RELEASEMAX BURR

If you are not happy with the Australia Post services you can now have your say.

"Following Australia Post's advice in August of this year that postal charges would have to be increased, the Prices Surveillance Authority is to hold an inquiry into the matter," Max Burr, (Lyons MHR) said today.

"The inquiry is to examine postal charges for the transmission within Australia of ordinary post of standard articles and registered publications.

"It is obvious to me, from the calls I get from the Lyons electorate that things are not that good with the postal services in rural areas.

"Neither is Tasmania getting a fair deal with interstate mail. "Standard mail from Sydney and Canberra some - times takes a week to get here."

Mr. Burr said that the priority paid service was also something of a gimmick lately as mainland stoppages and disputes disrupted the value of the service.

"What is the sense of paying that extra for same day delivery to be told by Australia Post that there is no guarantee of delivery?

"Before Australia Post increases its charges it should give the public a reliable service."

The inquiry starts on October 16 in Melbourne and anyone can send in a written submission by October 12 to the chief Executive Officer P.S.A., 10 Queens Road, Melbourne, 3004.

GARDEN HINTSRoses

Time to take a good look at our roses. Various pests and diseases affect roses from time to time, mainly depending on climate and conditions. Some are:-

Mildew Usually occurs during warm, damp spring or autumn, and thrive on dewy mornings. Stems and young buds become covered with blotchy white fungus, which stunts the growth and distorts the leaves. To control, spray with Karathane or Benlate.

Aphids Occur in spring or autumn. Pale green to brown. Sometime winged, they are very small, soft and fat, clustering on new tips and buds, sucking out sap and stunting the growth. Their enemies are lady birds, lacewings and small birds, while ants encourage aphids. Dowsing often with soapy water and hosing down quite often should be sufficient.

Black Spot A fungus disease associated with dampness and high temperature. Usually begins on lower leaves, while higher leaves turn brown and drop off. The black spots travel up the stem and may practically defoliate the whole bush. Always gather and destroy fallen leaves. Spray with Benlate or Melprex. Spray the area around the bush as well as the bush itself.

Safety A number of sprays (insecticides) are extremely toxic. Never handle nor inhale the concentrate or mixture always spray away from you and wash hands thoroughly. Destroy containers and keep all sprays out of reach of children.

E. L. Garrott & Co with Atkinson Gibson, Chartered Accountants – have merged.

One hundred years of experience was combined with a commitment to provide up-to-date personal service when Chartered Accountants E. L. Garrott and Co. and Atkinson Gibson merged their practices recently. The two firms have operated in Tasmania since the 1930s and the merger in July, as well as the admission of an extra partner at Burnie, has provided a greater range of services to the clients of both firms throughout Tasmania. Partners in the new firm welcome the opportunity to specialise with the introduction of a greater resource base.

They aim to provide highly personalised services for business in many industrial, commercial and service areas and particularly recognise the difficult environment in which Northern and North-East Coast clients operate. The Tasmanian-based firm has offices in key centres for easy accessibility, from Launceston, Burnie, Devonport, Smithton, Hobart to the East Coast towns of Bicheno, St Helens and St Marys.

The firm's solid base begins with 10 partners who share a combined personal experience of about 175 years. They are supported by 35 staff members, some of whom have been with the firm and its associates for more than 10 years and have personal client management responsibility. The combined spread of experience and specialisation makes it easy for the firm to tailor its resources to the needs of each client attended to by the appropriate partner or senior staff member.

By matching needs with specialist skills, they hope to make consulting a practising accountant a less painful experience for business people seeking competent advice.

HISTORY OF E. L. GARROTT & CO. – CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS

Our founder was Mr Lindsay Garrott, a well known Chartered Accountant and businessman who practised for nearly forty years in Launceston, having originally formed the partnership of Garrott & Garrott with his father Archibald E. Garrott in the early 1930s. Until his death in 1972, Lindsay Garrott held numerous professional appointments and directorships both in Tasmania and on the mainland.

In 1971, Lindsay Garrott was joined in partnership by his son Mr Geoffrey Garrott who continued the practice on the death of his father in 1972.

In 1979, Mr Craig Eddy joined the practice as resident partner and subsequently Mr Geoffrey Powell was admitted as a further resident partner in 1983.

He also serves clients in the three East Coast offices.

GEOFFREY V. POWELL:

He specialises in audits for Launceston and Hobart clients, with considerable responsibilities in taxation. Geoff also had 2 years in his family's electrical business and joined E. L. Garrott as a partner in 1983.

Atkinson Gibson has a distinguished history originating in Devonport in 1939 when Reg Brownrigg opened the doors for business in Wise, Lord and Ferguson offices in the old A.M.P. building.

In December 1961, the firm changed its name to Maggs, Shearer and Brownrigg.

Mike Gibson joined the partnership in 1973 and the firm merged with B. M. Cocker and Atkinson in January 1979.

Robert Atkinson practised in Devonport for several years with B. M. Cocker and brought 12 years experience as a registered company auditor and registered liquidator to the firm.

After many name changes the firm finally became Atkinson Gibson in 1981 and acquired the practice of E. R. Gillett at Burnie and Circular Head.

In July, 1982, Adrian Banwell – formerly a partner with Coopers & Lybrand at Burnie, a firm which included the practice of Ingles and Tiffin – brought his firm into the group.
