RETIREMENT IS HIS, NOT HERS

A READER'S STORY

As the time approached for my husband to retire my friends said: "Watch it. It's not all it's cracked up to be."

Briefly, they are right. You are suddenly back to four-hourly feeding, including all the snacks for the gnome at the bottom of the garden.

You want the girls in for cards but have to get permission. He is crestfallen, but grudgingly consents. He will go back to the city for the day and meet the boys for a few drinks and keep out of the way.

You wish he would stay around and make a good impression on the girls, but perhaps it's better not. That old gardening shirt, those broken shoelaces and the towelling hat. Take his plate to the kitchen? No. A bit too much like Lady Chatterley's lover.

You would love one of those days just wandering around the big new complex window-shopping, then doing a crossword in blessed solitude over a cup of coffee and a meat pie with peas.

No, you must stay home and grate carrots, wash the lettuce, cook the steak and feed him who, a month ago, was content with a packet of peanuts and a glass of beer for lunch.

Afternoon comes and your rugged gardener is hungry again, after painting the fence and manicuring the hedges. You must show how welcome he is by smiling frequently and forgoing all the afternoon weepies on telly. (That rubbish! Don't know how any intelligent person can watch it.)

The kitchen - which you always kept clean anyway - suddenly needs a man's strength. Or so he thinks. For two weeks my kitchen tiles have been flooded daily and are now sitting up at the edges begging for mercy. I swim through the ebbing tide at 10.30am to put the coffee on, making sure to wear inch-thick rubber soles before touching the switches. "You have a nice clean kitchen now," he says proudly.

"I'm going down to the shop," I say,

I who have not announced my movements for 40 years.

"You need milk, dear, and eggs, and bacon." And you are nearly out of cigarettes." (Hell yes, I'm going to need those.)

There is a sprinkler waving at the front door. Will I get my umbrella or go to the back door? Yes the back door. There is another sprinkler there. I am hemmed in, a prisoner. There's still the laundry door. No there's not. A power tool blocks my path.

I go back to the front door and rush through the sprinkler, my hair-spray turning to wet cement and my eye shadow running.

The lovely people at the office gave us golf buggies and clubs at the farewell party so we try them out. He has not played for 12 years, but I am in my usual form which means sometimes a booby prize, but sometimes nearest the pin.

"You are topping the ball," he says. "You had better aim for a spot two inches behind it." I watch him duff three chipping shots with silence thundering inside me. "You are standing too close to the ball, too," he says blithely.

I want to stay close to him just to show how much I love this man who has taken me safely through 34 years of marriage and given me two beautiful children. So I drive off the men's tee with him just to be near his side. The wretch is coming back from form and doubles my distance.

"You'd better stick to the Associates marker," he mentions gently. Our cat, which has done perfectly well on two meals a day, now gets four. There is consternation when it goes on its morning prowl. "Where is Puss? He'll get run over, Someone will clobber him. You really should keep him at home."

Puss smiles down secretly from the neighbour's roof where he has spent 1000 happy mornings.

MEALS ON WHEELS ASSOCIATION.

A recent appeal through your columns for new drivers for Meals delivery at St. Marys was not successful. No one volunteered. Drivers are required urgently, especially for Sunday. Please consider this appeal if you can drive a car. All you have to do is pick up the meals at the hospital kitchen at about 12o'clock Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday or whichever day might suit you. Meals are delivered around the town and to Cornwall. A petrol voucher for $2.00 is available for petrol. Disposable equipment is now in use and only the carrying esky and recipients money have to be returned to the hospital kitchen. Takes about an hour of your time but one thing this service does is it helps keep people independent for longer in their own homes. This committee is in receipt of grateful remarks made by our senior citizens towards the drivers who deliver their meals. You and our assistance are covered by a special M.O.W. Association personal insurance. Please give deep thought - and volunteer. Ring Mrs Karen Glatte our Treasurer or Contact St. Marys Committeemen:- Mrs Margaret Bullock, Mrs. Doris Bullock, Mrs. Pauline Berwick, Mrs. Heather Lodge, Mrs. Pat Burgess or the Hospital. As the CHRISTMAS SEASON approaches here are two thoughts I've read.
Una Camplin

The miracle of Christmas from "A Christmas Gift of love by Helen Steiner Rice."
The wonderment in a small child's eyes, the angels awe in the Christmas skies. The nameless joy that fills the air. The throngs that kneel in praise and prayer. These are the things that make us know that men may come and men may go, But none will ever find a way. To banish Christ from Christmas Day... For with each child there's born again a mystery that baffles men.

Ten Commandments of Christmas Shopping. per war cry (Canadian & Australian).

1. Thou shalt shop early. To add to the confusion of last minute shopping is to subtract from the spiritual content of Christmas both for thyself and the family.
2. Thou shalt shop courteously. Both the shop assistants and thy fellow customers are human, and it is human to tire and to err.
3. Thou shalt shop cheerfully. Christmas is a time of cheerful tidings, and not a time of tearful chiding. The Lord loves a cheerful shopper as well as a cheerful giver.
4. Thou shalt shop considerably before thou buyest, thou shalt pay the "butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker," for perchance, they want to shop too.
5. Thou shalt shop lovingly. To buy the gifts so as to match or exceed a gift expected, is to dishonour the babe in whose name we give, The gift should find its value in the affection it expresseth rather than the price.
6. Thou shalt shop peaceably. Games and toys that glorify war are not congruous with the natal day of the Prince of Peace.
7. Thou shalt shop abstinently. It is a far cry from the Christmas cheer of the angel's song to "cheer in the battle".
8. Thou shalt shop compassionately. As thou goest from store to store, thou shalt remember the needs of others. It is ~~He~~ whose birthday we observe who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me"

HOME ECONOMICS - What is it?

Home Economics is essentially a practical subject which is concerned with the developing of Life Skills. 1987 sees the development of new scopes for learning these skills and also a change in name for the subjects it encompasses.

The new names for the subjects will be:

Home Economics: Foods
Home Economics: Textiles
Home Economics: Home and Family

Each of these subjects has Core Units (units of work which all students must study as they give a basis for further study) and Optional Units (units which can be chosen for study).

Our students will learn:-

- . to acquire skills in cookery, needlecraft, household management and budgeting.

LOAN ISSUE:

Families seeking loan issue assistance for 1987 should by now have completed their application.

Forms are available from the school office.

"He's got no clerks and typists now," I whisper up to Puss. "He's only got us."

If I sleep in I wake to the thrashing of the washing machine. One must not rest, even on Sunday. There are carrots to be sprinkled, weeds to be pulled and the never-ending washing.

In panic I look around for my black slacks which must always be washed separately. My worst fears are confirmed. My slacks are swirling around among the singlets and towels collecting lint like a magnet picks up nails. Done for, ruined. I retreat to hide my tears and see him pegging them on the line with a look of an innocent man facing a judge with a black cap.

"Its all right," I call down.

"I always hated them. Put them with the car cleaning rags. They never did fit."

While he was away at the war the Tooth Fairy paid his last call on me, but I always had a good dentist and managed to keep this a secret. But now it is time to decide which medical benefits we shall take.

"We are getting older," he says, "and must expect dentistry and hospitalization at some time. We had better take the full dental coverage."

I hang my head in shame. "My dentistry will be minimal," I confess.

"Really? I didn't know that."

"It happened during the war. There seemed no need to tell you."

"Poor old thing," he chirps.

That night in bed I try to fight an attack of the giggles, because it is either laugh or cry. I finish up sniffing, something he hates above all else.

"Get your handkerchief," he says, "and stop that awful sniffing."

I obey orders and he falls asleep rocking the room with loud, contented snores.

There is a kind of poetry in these crescendoes of manly content and I think of poems which might apply.

"Now the storms of life are past
Love can have its way at last."

Or is it:

"With lighter step and brighter brain,
The old soul takes the road again."

Whatever it is, I am very glad I never had a lover on the side.

Because there are no secrets now. It is back to the everyday double-harness of a honeymoon where you live only for each other and right alongside each other 24 hours of the day.

You may be the better driver, but you move back now to the passenger seat.

You must explain all your tele-

"That was Alice. She wants me for cards on Tuesday."

That will be all right dear. I'll make it my day for the bank."

For better or worse. If you like freedom you have had the better. Now is the time to keep your sense of humour and make sure there isn't any 'worse'.

Just remember he has no clerks and typists now. The cat will be his baby and you will be his whipping boy while the jetlag slowly passes off.

9. Thou shalt shop benevolently. Remembering that "It is more blessed to give than to receive," thou shalt in thy gift buying seek to be a benefactor rather than a beneficiary.

10. Thou shalt shop Conservatively. It is thy duty to keep Christ in Christmas. This do and thou shalt not only shop like a Christian before Christmas, but thou shalt also celebrate like a Christian at Christmas.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir,

I would like to congratulate the Lions Club of St. Marys for the effort they put into the Carnival Day held last Saturday also to the Axemen and the Pony Gymkhana entries who always give wonderful support to this day and most of them travel quite some distance to participate. What I found most surprising was the obvious lack of support from much of your own local community. Congratulations to the people and businesses who do give their support, either with Trophies or just being there on the day. Small towns need involvement from everyone to become a successful community.

Goodluck for next year,
Signed: A Visitor

ST. MARYS LIONS CLUB RAFFLE

The St. Marys Lions Club Christmas Stocking raffle will now be drawn at the Street Party in St. Marys at 3.00pm on December 24th (Christmas Eve).

The Editor,
Valley Voice,
St. Marys 7215.

Dear Sir,

Do people who have cars every think of those who cannot drive? There are several widows in each of our towns whose driver husband has died and they have to seek a ride to wherever they wish or need to go. Some, naturally do not like doing this, so the purpose of this letter is to bring to your mind, if you are fortunate enough to have a car, offer someone a 'lift' to Church, to a meeting, to a function, shops, bank, doctor or whatever. Believe me, there are some people very much in need of this kind of help.

STARDUST

By Mercury week beginning 4th Dec.

SAGITTARIUS November 23 - Dec. 21

This week highlights your social life, but you will need to be careful about plans and those whom you spend time with now and in coming weeks. Cultivate reliable people. Best Days 4, 10.

CAPRICORN December 22 - January 20.

Your future outlook and upbeat ideas in general can stir up a considerable amount of enthusiasm today - giving your social popularity a nice boost. Travel is much favoured. Best Days 9, 13.

AQUARIUS January 21 - February 19.

A former friend who reenters your life can change the shape of the future for you. This could be your entre into a new social milieu of highly motivated upscale types. Best Days 5, 16.

PISCES February 20 - March 20.

Let your mate or other favourite companion set the pace this week. Whether or not it offsets all complications, it will probably make your social life a bit more exciting. Best Days 8, 11.

ARIES March 21 - April 20.

Lie low this week and give health, and employment interests and private interests some careful attention. Financial activities involving others are congenial and profitable. Best Days 13, 17.

TAURUS April 21 - May 21.

This is a good week for pursuing multiple interest and activities, much favoured are your lovelife and travel plans. But keep a close check on the pursestrings. Best Days 6, 12.

GEMINI May 22 - June 21.

This week is marked by a zest for work and achievement, the kind that could include shared financial rewards possibly. Two heads will be better than one now if you go shopping. Best Days 8, 15.

CANCER June 22 - July 23.

Your sunny outlook could have a lot to do with your popularity around about now - which probably won't harm romantic inspirations either. Best Days 7, 11.

LEO July 24 - August 23.

Your lovelife may be an on-again off-again proposition most of this week. If a new admirer (or old flame) keeps stalling about a date keep your sense of humour. Best Days 4, 14.

VIRGO August 24 - September 23

You may need to do some digging or prying now to obtain information essential to an upcoming decision. Meanwhile expect to make split-second domestic adjustments. Best Days 6, 17.

LIBRA September 24 - October 23

You may have to depart earlier than expected to a weekend destination, which may be the reason the rest of the day brings minor aggravations regarding family affairs. Best Days 10, 16.

SCORPIO October 24 - November 22

You hold the winning cards but may have to finagle a bit to stop on top. If anyone's good at subtle tactics, it's you. Best Days 6, 13.
