EDITORIAL

RURAL EDUCATION In the recently released parliamentary committee report on rural education it has been recommended that a similar standard of education should be available to country children as to city children. At present this is obviously not so.

Some of the more important recommendations of the report deal with the advisability of up-grading the first four years of rural secondary education and incentive to attract first class teachers into country areas.

These two points are intrinsically inseparable. In the past many teachers have refused to teach in the country because of the isolation. It is quite understandable that they should do, especially the younger teachers. Country living, in spite of its obvious advantages, does not suit everybody and it seems reasonable that to attract teachers to country schools worthwhile incentives should be offered.

Again, one of the main handicaps these teachers suffer is the one most overlooked by parents and officials alike. This is the lack of promotional opportunity in the country. Teachers in the city would find it relatively easy to up-grade their qualifications by attending extra classes; in the country this is almost impossible. Who then can blame any teacher looking to his future?

If teachers were offered incentives i.e. money, accommodation or promotion, they would then have little to lose and a lot to gain by a term in a rural area. Thus this would insure a plentiful supply of teachers and consequently a greater possibility of up-grading the curriculum for country students.

Another important point also mentioned in the report is student hostels. Nearly every head master who has come to St. Marys District School has recommended a hostel at St. Marys to cater for children in the outlying districts. This report, it seems, has proved them right.

It is hoped the Government, now the facts are available, will act and not simply shelve this report. It may do well to remember that the country electorate of Wilmot swung against Labor last election mainly because of its unsatisfactory rural education policy.

"OOPS! - I WISH SOMEONE WOULD TEACH ME TO READ SOON!"

TOUCHE'

DOUBLE PAY -- Striking for more pay is pervading every section of the community. Latest to suffer is W.A.'s maximum security Fremantle jail where prisoners refused to return to their cells until the authorities examined their grievances. The men want an increase in their gratuities from 80 cents to $1.60 per week.

LATEST CRAZE on the coast is the beach buggy. Any sunny weekend dozens of these little monsters can be seen - and heard, just about any where along the coast from Scamander to St. Helens Point. There is going to be fun when the sunbakers arrive.

NATIONAL HEART
FOUNDATION OF AUSTRALIA

The National Heart Foundation is a private, independent, non-profit organisation depending entirely on public financial support wholly dedicated to reducing death, disability and suffering caused by heart and circulation diseases.

It is the only organisation in Australia carrying out a comprehensive attack on heart and blood vessel disease by: Scientific and Medical Research, Education, Rehabilitation.

By the late 1950's, with the virtual conquest of infection and malnutrition as major causes of death, the pre-eminence of heart and blood vessel disease as the nation's leading health problem was clearly established.

Groups of private citizens in each State, including leading heart specialists, who were aware of the seriousness of the situation, decided to found a truly national organisation, with Divisions in each State, which would mobilize the community for a counter attack against heart disease.

The Foundation depends entirely on gifts and bequests to finance its work. The main source of its income since its establishment has been appeals for funds to the Australian public (to which the Commonwealth and State governments have contributed) and by unsolicited donations and bequests between appeals.

There is a small capital fund but the income from this meets only a fraction of the Foundation's annual expenditure (about $700,000 per annum), and the balance must be met by a continual flow of donations and bequests from the community.

It is in everyone's interest to support this foundation, so that the facilities we depend on are of the highest quality. The support any individual can give will insure this.

"Hide me under the shadow of Thy wings."
Psalm 17:8.
In Eastern lands the centipede is a form - idable and often poisonous insect, but its wisdom might well instruct human beings of every age and clime.
Afraid of the tarantula, the centipede always takes care to build a cactus fence around itself before it goes to sleep.
It is entertaining to watch the security of a centipede as it lies at ease, while the enemy cannot crawl over the cactus which it will never tackle.
The best defence for anyone against sin
and Satan and the enemies of his soul is to accept the shelter of God's love for himself. To have the assurance of His arms of love and comfort round about us when everything seems to be going wrong for us, enables us to go to our rest at night with a deep peace in our hearts.
"My peace I give unto you.....Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." John 14:27

NATURES DISTURBED PLAN

As we look at the water we see some shame of what modern man has done to natures plan.
As we see a fish swim gracefully by we wonder will it live or die.
As the rubbish floats past in the once
beautiful scene,
Slowly killing all living things
so make an effort for us to see lovely things that used to be.

"I have lived all my life in Fingal" said Bobby Bean, "and if you ask me I think the town has gone back a lot."

"My grandfather Robert Bean owned the Flour Mill near the Mill Bridge and you can still see parts of the old mill there. He had a large family of boys and he owned quite a bit of land round about where he grew wheat and the boys would help with the farming and the milling of the wheat.

The flour was taken by cart and horse to the station where it was sent off to Hobart to firms such as Gibsons. Wheat grown throughout the district was brought to the mill and the farmers would go home with their flour, the bran and the pollard and the chaff. One of my uncles had a chaff cutter and thrashing machine which he would take to the farms round about and the farmers and others would help, one sewing the bags and another tossing the chaff into the drum until all the work was done.

"There was a tannery, 2 doctors, a Police Sergeant and a Constable, an undertaker, a baker and a blacksmith. Where the garage now stands there were sawyards and The Bank of A/asia where Barber's shop stands. There were 2 hotels the bottom one called the Talbot Arms and the top one which was owned by my Grandfather Smith called the Tasmania Hotel. The stables stood where the hall was built and this later became the picture theatre and is now the panel beaters.

"Each year the Catholic Church held a big Fair in the hall and it went on for two days and two nights. The Catholic Presbytery was the house at present occupied by Mr. & Mrs. Johnny Francis and Mr. C. Hall.

Mr. Fred Barber owned a team of horses and waggon and used to do a lot of carting and Mr. Woods also had a team of horses and he would do heavy carting such as logs for bridges - it was he that carted the first machinery up the mountain for the Rossarden mine. The 1929 flood took everything before it, and part of the railway line was washed away. The Bridge which was where the swimming pool is now was washed away and for some time a punt had to be used to take people to Mathinna and Mangana.

Some people would go hunting possum, kangaroo, wallaby and ringtail. During the winter the season would last for three months and during that time some men would make as much as two or three hundred pounds which was a lot of money in those days. Others would go stripping wattle bark. This was used for tanning hides and skins.

"Every Saturday night there was a Dance, admission 9d. and the music was provided by a piano. Out behind Fingal was an orchard owned by Mrs. Pratt and you could go up and eat as much as you liked for 6d. The old council chambers were burnt down in 1927 and all the old records were burnt so we now have to send to Hobart for any old records.

NEW ROSTER FOR MEALS ON WHEELS

A new Meals on Wheels Roster has been drawn up to include drivers up to Feb. 72. A large roster will not be sent out to everyone this time, just a small one for each month, to those people driving that month.

This will save drivers having to keep a roster for for four months. At the moment each driver will have approximately three turns per year, we would like to reduce this to two and involve actively more people in our community. If you know of any friend whom you think would like to help please ask them and contact the Secretary of Meals on Wheels, G. Hoare, Cornwall.

FISHING NEWS

SCAMANDER ANGLING CLUB officials were pleased with the support given to the beam competition last Sunday. A total of 121 entries were received. It is regretted that a number of competitors went home with a certain part of their anatomy very wet and without fish. Fishing from the shore, Mr. D. Rowlings won first prize with a 1½ lb fish. Second was E. Linton and third K. Mason. In the boat section, first was Glen Turner who dead-heated with C. Brown and won the toss. Third was Ron Sumner. Heaviest fish caught by a lady was landed by Mrs. V. Oliver. The next competition will be conducted by the St. Helens Surf Angling Club on Saturday 13th November with entries and weigh-in at Ring Rock. FARMING NOTESSEEDS AND THE DEPRESSED RURAL ECONOMY:

In the past a depressed rural economy has meant a relaxation in the standards of seed purchased, often resulting in the longterm troubles. It would be unfair to blame the last depression for the Tasmanian weed position but it undoubtedly helped and the 2nd World War, with its relaxation of controls, have us a long lasting heritage...High priced seeds are not necessarily expensive nor cheap seeds a good buy. It is suggested you consider the following factors:-

STRAIN: A number of seeds are of certified strain and certification guarantees that the strain is pure. Strain for which there is no certification scheme (Brassicas, peas, lucerne etc.) should only be purchased from reputable sellers as you have no other guarantee. Older farmers can remember strains completely unsuited to Tasmanian conditions such as Danish Cocksfoot and Irish White Clover which are still available and could possibly be sold as uncertified cheap seed in Tasmania. Certification is no guarantee of high germination.

PURITY: Purity of certified seed is guaranteed and unless the seed reaches a high standard and is completely free from noxious weeds, certification is denied. Uncertified seed could have any impurity, including noxious weeds, which could cause troubles in after years. Uncleaned seeds are particularly suspect. It is difficult to estimate the number of seeds per 100 which are of the variety you require. If an unclean sample is 50% pure, and this figure is not unreasonable, twice the sowing rate would be needed and half the normal machine-cleaned price desirable seed sown, an undesirable seed is sown to compete, and sometimes to compete very vigorously, with desirable strains.

GERMINATION: Minimum standards are set in this State and are, by and large, the same in other Australian States but these minimum standards are low. Examples for some of our principal crops are:- Brassicas 65%, Red Clover 75%, Sub. Clover 85%, White Clover 75%, Cocksfoot 60%, Oats 80%, Phalaris 60% and Ryegrass 65%. Reputable merchants will not sell to the lowest of these standards without notifying the purchaser and reducing the price. Some Clovers, particularly White and Sub., have low germination before cleaning, probably in the vicinity of 50 to 60% and for this reason, uncleaned White and Sub. should be sown heavily.

NOXIOUS WEEDS: This state, largely because of requests from farmers, has outlawed certain weeds. Farmers who knowingly or through lack of care sow noxious weeds are fools to themselves, their children and their children's children....weeds are not declared noxious lightly. There is real danger in any noxious weed and, once established, cost of eradication is high if not impossible. Certified seeds can be considered safe, uncertified seeds from a reputable supplier can be checked by a Purity and Germination Certificate and by the Suppliers reputation. Unclean seeds, unless covered by the Purity and Germination Certificate, are definitely suspect and in most cases cannot be sold legally. In some cases the Purity and Germination Certificate cannot even be identified with the seeds you buy, it could relate to a sack of seed in another part of the store.

All seeds imported into this State for resale must be treated by the exporting and/or the Federal Government and in addition, all imported seed must be checked for Purity and Germination and for noxious weeds by the Tasmanian State Government before it can be sold. It is not uncommon for a seed such as Californian Thistle to be picked up by the Tasmanian State Tests and the seed returned to the country of origin or destroyed....these tests are not necessarily for seed imported by you for your own use, for your own protection seeds imported by you should be tested even if you have no redress from your supplier. SUMMARY: If you know and trust your supplier you may be sure that everything possible has been done to guarantee a good product....if you don't know your supplier, your cheap seed may not be so cheap after all.
