Stand up and be counted.

The Community Achievement Awards Gala presentation dinner was held at the Hotel Grand Chancellor in Hobart, sponsored by Southern Cross Television and SEA FM Hobart on Saturday 29th November.

Months earlier, the town of St Marys as a whole, with 30+ volunteer groups contributing to the wellbeing, diversity and lifestyle of the people, was entered in the Community of the Year Award. Out of 25 entries across Tasmania, we were one of four finalists in this category (sponsored by Kleenheat Gas) - Legerwood Hall and Reserves Committee, Brighton Alive of Gagebrook, Royal Hobart Hospital Volunteer Service and the Community of St Marys.

Eight of us went to Hobart to the dinner, with very special support from the Community bus expertly driven by Esther Rubenach, with lots of banter and laughter.

We enjoyed lunch in Oatlands, then on to the Old Wool Store Apartment Hotel, where we had, due to the generosity of Kelly Luck, Sales and Marketing Manager of the Hotel, an apartment to relax, rest and freshen up. Thanks Kelly, for supporting us once again!

Then, all in our glad rags, we went to enjoy the evening. We had fun, met a number of old and new friends, enjoyed the meal and felt good about our achievements.

Brighton Alive won the category—congratulations to all— a remarkable success story of 35 community events in 2 years. Locals had banded together, with Brighton Council allocating 2 staff members to assist in both resources and expertise, to ensure it is sustainable. Well done!

It was very good to see so many politicians, Mayors, Councillors and council staff attending, to help celebrate their groups' successes. It is so important, particularly during economic downturns to see that we are all in together.

The TLC Inc. always feels very pleased to see the support of our polities, councillors and council staff, it makes for a stronger community. So much can be achieved with friendship, fun laughter, cohesiveness and a positive spirit.

Congratulations must also go to the Rossarden and Friends

Kids Christmas Club, commenced in the 1930s. Well done.

The Valley was well represented in a number of categories.

We'll try again next year. Congratulations St Marys—at our place the rewards take many forms. The simplest things can give true simple pleasures.

Jan Sparkes.

Esther and Hannah Rubenach, who both received Certificates of Appreciation.

A LITTLE BIT OF HERITAGE: Jim Haas

"William Talbot"

William Talbot was born at Malahide Castle in County Fingal, near Dublin, Ireland in 1784. Although the castle had been the Talbot family home since the 12th Century, at the age of 36, William decided to leave and embark on a journey half way around the world.

He arrived in Van Diemens Land in November 1820, but in no time headed for Sydney where he proved his assets of just over six thousand pounds to Governor Lachlan Macquarie. As a result, the Governor issued William with a Location Order for the maximum land grant of 2,000 acres. As well, he was assigned six convicts as personal servants.

Accompanied by his convict servants, William soon boarded the 90 ton brigantine Prince Leopold and headed back to Van Diemens Land where he presented his Location Order to Lieutenant-Governor William Sorell.

By 1821, however, most of the good land around Hobart Town and Launceston had been taken up, forcing settlers to move further afield. It was about this time that George Meredith, who was from Welsh aristocratic stock with good assets, had returned from Swan Port - the area we now know as Swansea - and made a claim on what he reported as good flat land suitable for grazing and cropping. As a result, Lieutenant-Governor Sorell issued William with his Occupation Order at Swan Port on the 6th July 1821.

In no time, with his servants, a couple of hired hands and a thousand ewes, accompanied by twenty pure bred merino rams, William took up residence on his land grant. It was a mile inland from Great Oyster Bay and just north of the Meredith River.

For the next few months it was all go for William and his crew. They cleared a couple of acres of land, ploughed and planted it with crops, as well as build a study hut. The hut would have been about four rooms with two stone chimneys. The walls would have been timber framed and packed thick with turf and mud. The roof would have been made of thatched rushes and sags, but it would have been more than adequate to shelter William until a more substantial home could be built.

But alas, just as everything was going to plan, George Meredith turned up and found William encroaching on what, he believed, was his land grant. Apparently, despite some 60,000 acres of available land in the Swan Port area, Lieutenant-Governor Sorell had given both men the same grant.

A bitter dispute followed with neither man willing to give an inch. Letters and deputations went to Lieutenant-Governor Sorell. More letters were sent to the Home Secretary in London, as well as Governor Thomas Brisbane, who was now the Governor of New South Wales. But month after month, year after year, the dispute lingered on.

It was Lieutenant-Governor George Arthur, after taking over Van Diemens land in 1824, who finally ended the conflict. In August 1824, after examining the evidence and calling the two men together, ruled in favour of George Meredith, but only if he paid William Talbot one thousand pounds for the improvements he had made to the land. In compensation, the Lieutenant-Governor offered William another grant of his choice, with an additional one thousand acres and extra convict labour.

Both men accepted the offer and William, now with an extra thousand pounds in his pocket, plus a Location Order of three thousand acres, headed off in search of another more suitable place to settle.

It was a couple of years later, after meeting up with John Helder Wedge, who had surveyed the area along the South

Esk and Break O'Day Rivers in 1825, before William came across a spot at the junction of the two rivers and made his claim.

William was rapt; he had found a perfect place to establish his new "Malahide".

It was a place superior in almost every way to the old "Malahide" he had been forced to leave at Swan Port.

The land was much more fertile and there was an abundance of clean, fresh water.

But best of all, there was no George Meredith.

Malahide Castle in County Fingal, Ireland, was the home of the Talbot family from 1185 to 1975 when it was purchased by the Irish Government and is now administered by them as a tourist attraction.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor

The need to protect our water catchments from toxic chemicals which may adversely impact on the ecosystem and human health is paramount.

Use of the Pesticide Impact Rating Index (PIRI) desktop modelling tool alone will not do this, as PIRI explicitly excludes risk to human health, concentrating on environmental risks. Even so, it admits that the toxic effects to key aquatic species is not known. This is in spite of increasing scientific evidence showing harm from previously used and currently regulated pesticides, such as DDT, alpha-cypermethrin, diazinon, simazine, MCPA, 2,4-D and Roundup. Aerial spraying is the most worrisome type of pesticide application and must be restricted to exceptional situations. Forestry Tasmania itself has stated in a public report: "All instances of detections (of pesticides) are associated with aerial operations. There has been no reason determined as to why this occurs." As the taxpayer is footing the bill, and is also a water user, the taxpayer should be aware of the risks taken in using this tool in the risk management of human activities in water catchments.

The problems encountered with loopholes in rules and regulations and the difficulty in implementing preventative measures seem indeed at times insurmountable due to the approach taken by the regulators (Federal and State) and their obvious difficulty in dealing with complex 'real life' situations. There is an urgent need for State regulatory control of "poisonous chemicals" (pesticides) which covers both the application and movement off-site of pesticides to properly protect human and environmental health.

It is no longer acceptable to allow the application of poisonous chemicals (pesticides) and to then turn one's back on the consequences after the point of application.

To the Valley Voice:

Get a bl...y life,

You are going to have to get out more and see the sights, instead of sitting around stewing about the parking in St Marys.

It's over.. it's finished.. voted for.

Focus that mind of yours on something that all the people want, not just what you want.

If you want facts... 100% of travellers from the main land, and here in Tassie have said: and I quote: "That if the parking is changed in St Marys, they will all by-pass this town. They have seen too many small towns stuffed by changes like this." They continued to say, " they will all sign a petition if I need one".

So if you want to be known as the guy who took St Marys off the map, you go for it.

Sorry if I sound rude, but the people of St Marys are sick of all of this.

Reply to "A question of safety and sense of place"

As a local person and a business owner, I have tried very hard to see all points of view in this matter.

I now find myself wanting to put my thoughts down and speak my mind.

Peter Troode and Patti O'Donnell, (in a previous issue of The Valley Voice) have made some valid points in their letters to the editor. I believe, however, there are many ways besides changing parking conditions to ensure the safety of drivers and pedestrians.

But, let's consider if parking was changed. Where would people park? Should parking spots be taken away from shop fronts, and a car park placed behind Main Street? I think this causes problems for the very people you are talking about. Easy access for those of us with poor mobility, who are frail and aged etc., (which we have a large number of) have not been taken into consideration.

Also, as a struggling business owner who relies on passing visitors for my livelihood, I am concerned with taking away convenience for visitors who might just keep driving if parking is unavailable or not easily found. This is not something I take lightly, nor do I want to be considered someone who only thinks of their own profit, but this is how my family keeps a roof over their head.

I also understand what Harry Veldums wrote when he suggested a better way to use the money allocated. Why can't the money be used to beautify the town RIGHT NOW?

Maybe at a later time we could address the issues of major renovations that wouldn't even be attainable any way with the funds allocated for now.

I can see there is a great vision for the future and I applaud the efforts of everyone who wishes to improve Main Street.

But, let's learn to walk before we can run. Eh?

Kim Chappell,
Main Street Clothing.

Dear Editor,

I wish to express my hearty thanks to all the Grassy Bottom Regional Arts volunteers for their excellent effort in organising and running the recent Spring Fair in St Marys.

It was wonderful to experience our community getting together and celebrating Spring.

So thank you for making that possible.

Alizon McColl.

What an absolute delight to drive around the front of the memorial hall in St Marys. The colour of the flowers stands out and proves that there are countless ways which you can enhance the aesthetics of a town. Full credit to those involved, please keep up the good effort.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Answering David Clements, Nov 20th

Interesting that you are really only interested in Plantations in the wrong place.

There is a simple solution to this worry.

I challenge you to put your money where your mouth is or should I say lips, and buy the land that is concerning you, then you will have total control of the situation.

If you find yourself a bit short of the amount you may be able to juxtapose with Julia and have a joint venture.

Until you learn a bit about trees instead of quoting scientific jargon all the time, have a great Christmas.

Barry Aulich.

Dear Editor,

Regarding the recent letter we at SMACD sent to Minister Garrett and the rejoinder from "Concerned Resident".

The letter was not meant to reflect any particular political point of view, but rather a concern for what is happening around the district.

The "Concerned Resident" may be aware that both power generators and coal mining entities are now searching throughout the country for land to convert to tree plantations, which can be used in carbon offset schemes.

As these plantations are seen to be encroaching on viable agricultural lands and closing in on human habitation, we felt that as part of this community and having an interest in its wellbeing, we should raise our concerns at the Federal level rather than local government, given its compromised nature.

If these queries to Minister Garrett are seen by "Concerned Resident" to be beyond what you consider to be our remit, then I do apologise for any upset caused to "Concerned Resident", and would encourage him/her to write to Minister Garrett setting out their views regarding the above.

He/she could also join us on the 12th December for our 10th Anniversary, where we are given to understand some Federal politicians will be in attendance.

Yours,

Neil Capill. SMACD.

Response to Ms Weston (V.V. Nov 20th)

I thank Ms Weston for her contribution to the Valley Voice of November 20th.

Having read your comments, I have come to the conclusion that you have not read mine (Valley Voice Nov 6th) with full comprehension.

Contrary to your supposed idea, I did not set out to preach a lesson, but to inform the wider reader audience as to why the St Marys water supply is not under threat from one and only one species of tree.

If you Ms Weston have some "new science" in relation to the water cycle, then please let everyone know.

I, for one, will be able to tell my close friend and family member, Marion, and her husband John. Marion is a geologist, John is a botanist. They both teach at the University of Western Australia, and would be very keen to learn.

You have in the opening paragraphs of your article, dismissed me as some sort of un-educated hick. Sorry to disappoint you.

So as you are still reading this, I can inform you that dating trees and timber artifacts by counting the growth rings is called dendrochronology and, is used by scientists to determine past climate change and sequence.

It is so unfortunate that your tourist establishment relies so heavily on the backdrop view of the state forest and neighbouring properties.

Somehow, I doubt if anyone is telling you what to do with your property, and that would be your business.

If your hospitality product is as good as the locals think, then it won't matter what happens outside your front gate.

Should you not like me because I am informed, and have my own views, then just join the queue. Please don't push in.

Mrs Jeanette Peryman.

PS. I like cats.

Letters to the Editor

Mr Clement,

Your blunderbuss is only good for firing corks!

When you encounter any comment that you find even slightly objectionable, you turn the whole thing around with such effervescence! Bubble, bubble, bubble, or is it, gurgle, gurgle, gurgle, as your arguments hold no water and your words become a mini-rapid as they quickly go down the drain.

You have obviously misread my previous articles of V. Voice, Oct. 9 and Nov. 6.

Do you need new glasses?

Unfortunately, I now have to bore the wider reader audience with repetition.

1) V. Voice Oct 9, I stated: "I am not an advocate for those who would like to see vast plantations. I would also like to see a continuation of sheep and cattle production. In fact names like 'Cullenswood', 'Londavra', and 'Harefield' are of historic importance and should continue, maybe as labels on designer clothes. 'Fingal Valley' has a nice sound to it, don't you think? A re-direction in our thinking is probably what will sustain us. So get positive."

How could the abovementioned comments only be in regard to say, value-adding to agricultural products. Why can't we have new successful industry in the town. What about "South Sister", skimpy underwear range for women, or better still, "sausage king sizzling sausage" daks for men. There are already some local successes, with scope for more.

You may note that I wasn't talking about hemp production either. Why? Because it does require too much water for growth, and after careful harvest, which is done in two stages, the plants are soaked for up to three weeks. The putrefaction process ensures the separation of fibres from the stem. A labour intensive process of growing and harvesting hemp was carried out in England for centuries. Fibres for clothing being one usage.

According to Stephen's "Book of the Farm" published in 1844, it took approx. 320 acres to make enough rope from hemp, to outfit a man-o-war sailing ship. 560lbs to the acre was considered a good crop.

2) V. Voice Nov. 6 I stated: "Before white settlement, this valley was covered from end to end with native forest. My only concern with eucalypt plantations is bushfire, and you have previously stated that this is not a major concern. All native species of flora have evolved to rely on natural rainfall. Man's activities have out-paced this ongoing evolutionary process in many cases."

If you read the connecting paragraphs just re-stated to you (in context) you will realise that there is a question as to whether the original forests of this valley may have adopted other adaptations, if we, white man, had never settled and cleared the land. Who knows.

I have also suggested that eucalyptus nitens is a hybrid cultivar, and it is mankind which has interfered with the gene base to gain a plant suitable for the existing soil types and existing rainfall pattern, without the need for irrigation.

Yes Mr Clement, I do fail to see your point of view, because I suspect that your so-called arguments are shrouded in some sort of plot of subversion in relation to the Break O'Day council and its planning scheme. This is highlighted in the whole of paragraph 8 of your article "Death of a Town", V. Voice Sept 25, and your subsequent musings.

I can only suppose that if you have the rather stupid notion that the St Marys town water supply is indeed under threat, then you and your Peter-Pan mates should re-group.

You would all be in a position to launch a class action against the BOD council (that's you) because according to your reckoning, they have failed in their duty of care to provide us all with an adequate water supply.

Put your money where your mouth is.

Maybe this mythical "bogey" has been created simply to draw attention to yourself.

I for one, do not wish to be one of the "Belles of St Clemens".

I thank the editor and other readers for persevering with us both.

Mrs Jeanette Peryman.

It was a blustery, cold and wet night when the Launceston Walking Club Inc. presented "Do you know Tasmania", at JAM Headquarters, St Marys.

As we had seen some of their slide shows in the 1970s, we decided to go along to do some "armchair" bushwalking, to areas we knew we would never be able to visit.

We weren't disappointed. It was an excellent presentation showing some of the magnificent and spectacular areas of our island. Definitely worth venturing out on such a night.

Thank you to those who organised it.

Ruth and Adrian Spencer.

Has anyone taken a good look around this pretty little village of St Marys in the last couple of weeks since all the lovely rain?

What a picture it is with all the spring flowers, shrubs and the lovely expanses of green mown nature strips.

Thanks to the council workers for the spring tidy up. You are doing a great job. Also the Wombat Walk Landscaping Group and all the locals who are busy tidying up their own yards in preparation for Christmas.

St Marys is as pretty as a postcard, and it is a pleasure to live here.

Hope all the businesses do well with their Christmas sales as well. There are some great bargains to be had if you take the time to go and visit all the businesses in town. Shop locally, I say.

Happy Camper. (Name supplied)

How to Spend Rudd's $269,000 in Break O'Day

Following the meeting of the first Australian Council of Local Government in Canberra, local Councils were allocated funds under the Commonwealth's community infrastructure package to stimulate economic activity. Break O'Day was allocated $269,000 based on a formula of population and needs criteria. This is a one-off grant to be spent on community infrastructure projects, such as heritage sites, main streets, community centres, playgrounds, playgroup or youth centres, footbridges, theatre/music/arts spaces, parks and gardens, walking tracks and cycle paths, etc.

The funds can be spent on new constructions, major refurbishments or renovations, and can be used for construction or fit out, preparatory work such as engineering studies, surveys and site investigations and project management costs. Funding is not available for ongoing running and maintenance costs, or for road infrastructure.

Council must provide details of projects to Canberra by 31 January 2009, to be spent by 30 September 2009. The BOD Council needs to establish a list of projects to be submitted for the programme. If there was one project per settlement throughout the municipality, the average project would be $9275, so on that basis funds would not run to constructing the Taj Mahal. However, so far there has been no discussion or decisions made on the local selection criteria, so that more might be available for any particular project.

It would have been desirable that community groups would have been given some notice to allow submissions to be prepared for discussion at a Council Workshop in December and decisions made at the Council Meeting in January. However, at short notice, the General Manager has advised that the matter is listed for decision at Council's meeting next Monday, 8th December.

If any individual or community group wishes to submit a project to be considered for a grant, you will need to provide a brief written outline for the attention of the General Manager by close of business tomorrow (Friday) either hand delivered, by fax 63761551, or by email to angela.mattews@bodec.tas.gov.au. Alternatively, I can be contacted by phone after 6pm tonight through until 9.00pm Sunday (6372 2647) and you can provide me with brief details so that I can include them in the discussions on your behalf.

REUNION

St Marys District High School B Class of 1968 & Others

The St Marys Sesquicentenary celebration which was held last December 2007, was attended by three friends who were members of the St Marys District High School B Class of 1968. A result of that chance meeting was a very successful school reunion last weekend.

How does a good idea become a reality?...well that requires much enthusiasm and commitment from an energised few (which translates to many phone calls, emails, postage and a little coercion to join in the fun).

Over the next few months...well from only July onwards actually, several people were contacted via various means and the result was the attendance of some 34 people at a tour of the St Marys District High School on Saturday Nov. 29th afternoon, followed by afternoon tea in the staff room. Our thanks to the school catering staff, Maureen Bushing and our very hospitable tour guide, Mary Targett.

A dinner was held at the Scamander Beach Resort on Saturday evening which was attended by 58 old staff, students and partners...yes that is right 'old'...we are all over the 50 years mark...OUCH! There were of course a number of people who were unable to attend—we need you to know that we missed you.

What a night—much hilarity during the meal & late into the night by some! Many memories were recalled with slight variances in the telling, and photos transported us back in time. Several people had not met since Nov 29 1968, but it really did seem that the years had not ensued. Many times the comments were uttered, "it only seems like yesterday", "you haven't changed a bit", "what has occupied your interests since we met?", "can I have your email?"

John Schier displayed "Schier" brilliance in his duties as our MC, which included the reading of letters from our colleagues (Janet Hogan(Yates) and Michael Burrows) who were unable to attend. Another John (John Tate) responded on behalf of the teachers of that era. Teachers and school staff present were Frank Martin, Jenifer Miles, Bill & Kerry (Lambert) Tomalin, Mary Targett, Ruth McGiveron & Liz Avery, and Mrs Hudson (Hunt) representing the principal, (the late David Hunt). Heather Lodge and Pauline Berwick attended the afternoon tea.

The male head prefect of 1968 Michael Chapman, recalled his memories of our years at St Marys and made recognition of the fact that indeed St Marys District High School provided us with a sound platform from which to embark on our chosen pathways in life.

A message was delivered from Jenny Barrass (Gillies) who was the female head prefect of 1968. Incidentally Jenny and her family have lived for approximately 30 years in northeast England in a small place named "St Marys"!

On Sunday morning approximately 30 of the group enjoyed breakfast at the Scamander Beach Resort. This venue was great, meals were excellent, the staff were very accommodating and of course the view-WOW!

It did dawn on some however at this point that indeed some few years had passed since we had talked way into the night but then again it was all worth it just to reminisce in good company.

All who attended are full of praise for the efforts of Irene O'Neill (Waller), John Schier, Lee DeBruyn (Beven), Michele Cook (Semmens) Jenny Newton (Hunt), Maureen Luck (Barber) and Colleen Turner (Bean) for taking up the challenge and succeeding on all fronts.

So thank you again to the organisers of the Sesquicentenary celebrations that brought Irene, Jenny and myself together to awaken our dream of catching up with old friends in a familiar environment.

For all readers who are wondering why you would want to be bothered to attend such a reunion I can only say don't wonder, just make it happen.

The Say Cagerattler

A few weeks ago I read with interest of a call to look again at Council amalgamations. Mmm.. interesting idea I suppose. At the risk of being accused of not knowing what I'm talking about like one other time I wrote about Council matters, this is a point of view on Council changes from one ratepayer. Me, that is when the previous amalgamations were done many years ago most of us viewed our own joining of Fingal, and Portland with a great deal of skepticism. No one really knew what was going to happen.

I expect to this day some of us are still uncertain as to whether we are any better or worse off than before which then asks the inevitable. Would another amalgamation be any benefit at all in a totally rural area?

Personally I think not, but to be fair I'd need to hear the case for and against to be more sure of that opinion. Maybe if a major benefit to us amalgamating is directly for balancing funding for infrastructure gains to the community as a whole, then this may be good. Also by obtaining resources that we currently do not possess then again it might bear consideration.

However, if the main reason to amalgamate is to save money for state bodies, then that surely would not be beneficial at all for any of us. If any further discussion is forthcoming on this subject in the coming months and years we must demand a totally complete and honest explanation from the proponents and perhaps it needs a referendum to truly gauge public sentiment on further amalgamations.

While still on Council changes, I'd like to make a suggestion even if it might sound a little retro to some. How about reverting back to the Ward system again. I am curious why this was discontinued. Put simply to those who don't know much about it, the councillor was elected to represent a part of the municipality which to us constituents meant that we knew exactly who to contact with queries or problems.

Nowadays you just contact council and hopefully you might get a hearing from someone provided circumstances allow. That usually is a council employee from personal experience over the years, I believe.

Sometimes the old ways have merit. Maybe one of our current councillors could comment on this idea in a future edition of the Valley Voice.

Anyway until further moves are in the wind on this subject of amalgamations we can only speculate, but all I wonder is if sometimes it's just better to leave things alone.

What do you think?

Electricity. Everyone's Problem.

The recent 20% rise in the price of electricity has prompted me to hit the information highway and take a gander at the future of this essential of modern life.

The first thing the generators website tells you is that Australians enjoy the cheapest electricity on the planet. The only place where it is cheaper is South Africa. This fact is, of course, the sound of a warning shot being fired at electricity consumers. The implication is that we should be paying closer to the world average to sustain a healthy generating industry. Your power bill will double if this happens.

The next thing the poor old generators want is a 36% rise in the wholesale price of electricity so they can afford to build new power stations. By the time this 36% filters down through several layers of spivs in suits to your meter box, it will be hang onto your hat time. Within a few years we will be looking back on the last 20% increase with a warm fuzzy feeling. Electricity is about to go the same way fuel went and that will be rapidly out of sight.

Add to this yet another layer of spivs in suits when carbon trading is introduced, and you will be studying the heat pump on the wall (It was such a good idea just a year ago) with a view to stuffing a burning log into it somewhere.

Special mention must be made of the clapped out old hippies and enviro warriors that thought they may have been at the Franklin blockade in 1982. You have just cost Tasmania and the planet 20 years of 100% carbon free low cost electricity. This didn't mean a whole lot until we hooked up to the national grid via Basslink. Now what you worn out old bong bashers achieved is really coming home to roost.

The Franklin Scheme would have given us an excess of green electricity that would have drought proofed our system and kept costs low. But here is the bit that now kicks.

Basslink is a terrific idea while ever the electricity is going north. Trouble is that it is all going south and poor old Hydro is being sent broke by the robber barons on the mainland. Hydro is out with the begging bowl and assaulting its customers with 20% price rises and it is still going down the gurgler.

If only we had the capacity to send power north.

What price 100% green, zero carbon electricity landing in Victoria in this deregulated electricity market? There would be a river of gold running back to Tasmania. 20% price rise? I don't think so, and Hydro would still be rolling in cash and paying dividends to the Tasmanian taxpayer.

Maybe the future has a politician with half a brain and a backbone who will consider Tasmania and the Planet and ask the question. Just what does, "Locked up for ever in a world heritage area," actually translate into?

There is another solution to this and it is right here in the mighty Fingal Valley.

What we need is a dirty great coal fired power station at say, Mount Nicholas and a transmission line through the bush to the Basslink transformer at Ledgerwood. Then we can play a part in several solutions.

All sides of politics should not be just supporting this, they should all be demanding the coal fired solution and here is why.

Who could forget little Johnny whatisname prior to the last federal election. Ask any question on global warming or the environment and out came the stock answer: "Clean Coal and Carbon Capture".

Every talking head from the manufacturing and mining groups immediately fell into step and we were spun up adnauseum with the Clean Coal solution.

Kevin Rudd is currently running around with a bag full of money to invest in Clean Coal technology.

Now, we have the coal, we need the electricity and more importantly, we should aspire to regain our former status as the only state to have low carbon electricity. If "Clean Coal" and "Carbon Capture" is possible all Tasmanians should want it here and now.

Coal should not be leaving this valley in trucks and trains if there is a possibility of value adding into electricity for Tasmania and the more economically important export to the mainland. A Clean Coal Power Station would underwrite our coal mines and isolate them from any future commodity price fluctuations.

If this can be done the whole world will be turning off at Conara to get some Fingal Valley Carbon Sense slapped into them and paying for the privilege. A lot of old clapped out hippies should be grateful for the coal solution. They would not have to put their lives at risk down on the Franklin to stop the dams again.

Bob Brown and the dreadlock brigade will be blocking the road at Fingal holding a protest demanding the construction of a coal fired power station. Now I want to be there to see that.

"What do we want?" "Coal Fired!"

"When do we want it?" "NOW!"

Bob Oates.

Back to Mangana.

The staff and committee of the Fingal Valley Neighbourhood House Inc., would like to issue our thanks to all involved in the recent "Back to Mangana" long weekend activity.

The weekend saw approx 450-500 people participating in activities such as the bus tour on Sunday to Storey's Creek, the mini market, children's games and activities, photo displays, screenings of 'Tale of Ruby Rose' and ABC Productions, tin and gold panning displays, & fire works display.

We had the Good Old Boys from George Town performing, Peter Hugland from Hobart entertaining, together with local musicians.

On Sunday, Mass was given by Father Noel Francis. This was a very lovely and emotional time for Father Noel and the Francis family of Mangana.

The raffle was drawn and prizes have been delivered.

1st & 4th prizes went to Mangana residents, with second going to Bicheno and 3rd to Scamander. The proceeds from the weekend have been given to Sister Lorraine at St Marys and will be utilised locally.

Once again, if you assisted or attended, we thank you for your participation.

The new church sign at Mangana was manufactured by Hawksigns & Graphics, George Town. (Ph: 0408 428 147)

Wendy Brennan, Secretary.

Congratulations to one of our members Marcus Hall. Marcus has completed his two year University of Tasmania associate degree in furniture design. Reon and I had the privilege of attending the "Wooden it be fine" furniture exhibition which not only had Marcus's clever Huon pine coffin on display but also his beautiful hand crafted room divide made of Myrtle. The exhibition was a credit to all exhibitors for their innovative designs.

The Guild has had its last meeting for the year, therefore I would like to take this opportunity to wish all our supporters and members a safe and happy Christmas/ New Year.

"And we all hope it's a Christmas without any tears."

Last but not least to Judy and the staff of the Valley Voice a thank you from all our members for your support in making it possible to reach a varied audience of wood enthusiasts, courtesy of the Voice.

Don't forget to look out for the sausage king at the markets. All monies raised are returned to the club.

The Guild meets on the last Saturday of the month at the Old Railway Goods Shed at 2.00 pm.

The Guild is open Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Any other times by appointment.

DOING THE ROUNDS

Cllr Reon Johns.

Like to raise an issue? Feel free to contact me on mobile 0429722091.

Any organisation worth its salt would display an ability to welcome the questions/criticisms of its customers, staff etc. By this the organisation can focus on what it is doing well and where improvements can be made. This philosophy is adopted by all successful companies and individuals.

This especially applies to Federal, State and local government, who should display this type of tolerance. All people who receive some sort of salary, wage or allowance, which is derived from the raising of taxes, rates etc, are answerable to the people who pay the rates, taxes etc.

I have over the last year received many complaints/criticisms about the maintenance and other front line Council staff and what is expected of them and what they should and shouldn't do.

I have always followed up the concerns and reported back to the person who raised the question. This was welcomed, as the explanation was generally accepted and another issue put to rest. Open and transparent, good stuff.

However, when several residents raised a concern and I asked the question below in the November Council Meeting, a small group of people took issue, why I am yet to understand? It is not good policy to encourage inquiries and provide answers; this openness stops innuendo and unwarranted rumours. As the only silly question is the one that is not asked.

Questions raised on behalf of residents

11/08.10.2 Social Functions – Cllr R Johns

a. Considering the increasing amount of workload placed on each staff member and the increasing delay in answering enquiries is it prudent to have senior and support staff attending social functions during Council office opening hours?

b. How many functions are attended during the year and number of staff in attendance?

c. How is this time made up?

Reply: The Mayor has reviewed the question and directed that as it is a staff issue it will not be responded to in a public arena.

I visit Mathinna and Fingal on the last Thursday of each month. I will be in St Marys, at the Bakery, on the first Thursday of the month from 10:00am till 11:30am. Then on to Scamander, Mouth Café, from 12:30pm till 2:00pm.

I can be contacted on mobile 0429 722 091 or Fax 63722098.

Bits and Pieces

In Tim McManus's book "Thanks to Providence", we read about the first golf course in the area being built at Falmouth. It was on the hill to the south of the road leading into the township.

One of the main folk involved in the course was John Thorold, who ran the first garage in St Marys where the current Faulkner's garage stands today.

John was apparently a top golfer in his day and by all accounts as keen as mustard on the game. 93 years old George Oliver, also a top golfer in his day, tells us when John walked down to the Post Office each day for his mail, he would take a golf club and chip a ball all the way down and all the way back. There was obviously much less asphalt and concrete about in those days.

For more on the fascinating history of the Fingal Valley, log onto www.fingalvalleyhistory.com, or view our display at the Cranks and Tinkerers Motor Museum in Main St., St Marys, or call into the research room at the St Marys Online Access Centre.

THIS IS THE START...

...AND THIS IS THE PRODUCT

PURE DELIGHT HEMP OIL is cold pressed from raw live hempseed with no sterilization or heating. Our body product range contains maximum oil content. Pure Delight produce and supply most of our own ingredients and manufacture locally.

RAW HEMP SEED

HEMP OIL feeds and nourishes the body, both internally and externally keeping YOUR body strong and resilient. Medical research suggests we consume a 4:1 ratio of Omega-6s to Omega-3s (the GOOD oils), which HEMP SEED OIL can accomplish, with 3 times more essential fatty acids than fish oil. HEMP has three times the vitamin E and twice the iron and magnesium of flax.

BODY VITALITY

PURE ORGANIC HEMP OIL is the ultimate blend of essential fatty acids, Omega 6, Omega 3 and GLA for soft skin, rich hair, all cell functions and complete health. Available in 3 convenient sizes: 125ml, 625ml & 1250ml. Please keep refrigerated after opening.
125ml $16.95, 625ml $55.00 1250ml $85.

School Uniform

Due to the success of the new School Skirt we will be placing another order before the end of the year. If you are interested in ordering one for next year please let us know at the office on 6372 3900.

We have samples of all sizes in the office for you to try.

A huge thankyou to the students and staff at St. Marys DHS who supported Boardies Day on Friday 28th November.

By wearing boardies and summer attire, $110 was raised and given to our local Scamander Surf Lifesaving Club. The monies raised helps the Club to purchase vital rescue equipment, train and develop future lifesavers and deliver education programs.

Sports Centre News Kackhander

Thankfully the rain has come at last and helped out in greening things up and filling those water tanks around the place, but for the local bowlers and golfers on the weekends it has curtailed activity big time.

We can't recall the last time two consecutive rounds of pennant bowls have been called off due to the inclement weather but that's what has just happened. No results whatsoever I'm afraid. Similarly the same thing for Saturday golf too.

Over the coming weeks prior to Christmas St Marys plays host to both St Helens teams in what may well shape ladder positions later in the season. This is for both men and women so please try to keep up the practice in the near future. Also the various draws have been done for club championship events across the board so please also try to get your games in by the allotted times so that they progress smoothly.

Similarly over the next few weeks the traditional golf events hope to go ahead, so if you wish to enjoy the constantly improving course then here is your chance.

On behalf of the whole club we wish to extend to Nicky, Brent and Jordy and their family our sincerest thoughts on your loss recently. Very sad but we know all your friends at the club share your pain with you.

Anyway until next time, good hitting and rolling.
