Wollemi Pine –Wollemia nobilis

The Wollemi Pine is one of the world's oldest and rarest plants, discovered in the Blue Mountains, New South Wales in 1994.

This species was thought to be extinct for millions of years. 'The discovery of the Wollemi Pine is the equivalent of finding a small dinosaur still alive on earth' said Professor Carrick Chambers, Royal Botanic Gardens, Sydney, in 1994.

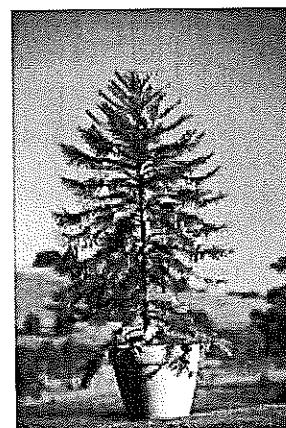

This pine is so named because it was found in the Wollemi National Park by David Noble.

The Lions Club of St Marys Inc. wish to advise they will be organising a free sausage sizzle at the Lions Park, (pictured left) for all helpers assisting the Wombat Walk Weeders Group on National Tree Planting Day, 27th July, 2008. Planting begins at 10am, with a 12 noon BBQ.

A LITTLE BIT OF HERITAGE: Jim Haas

"A Comfortable Lifestyle"

As a boy growing up in the 1950s, I remember a common saying of the "Old Hands": "If you have a roof over your head, a warm bed and a full belly, what more do you want?" These folks, of course, had weathered depressions and long strikes, all of which had taught them to appreciate the basics of life.

How times have changed, we now live in a world governed by materialism. Indeed, the Westpac ASFA Retirement Standards research report of August 2007 tells us that to live a comfortable lifestyle in retirement today you will need a superannuation of at least a million dollars, or a little more.

So what is their perception of a comfortable lifestyle?

- ☐ Entertaining at home on a fortnightly basis.
- ☐ Seven glasses of wine or equivalent per week.
- ☐ Eating out at a restaurant or club three times a week, or once a week at an expensive restaurant.
- ☐ $20 a week or so per person in total for drinks at the club, some gambling on lottery or the like, tobacco purchases (if a smoker), or gifts to family or organisations.
- ☐ The purchase of magazines, CDs and DVDs.
- ☐ The purchase and running of air conditioner and dishwasher.
- ☐ The use of a stylish hair dressing salon, rather than visit on the special pensioner's day.
- ☐ More stylish clothing from an upmarket department store than relatively cheap clothing from a discount store. For a woman this may be the difference between $150 and $50 for a dress.
- ☐ The replacement of a bathroom or kitchen during retirement, rather than these items being left untouched for 20 years or more.
- ☐ Better quality whitegoods for the kitchen and laundry every 15 years or so.
- ☐ The purchase and operation of a more modern motor vehicle
- ☐ Top grade private health insurance and a range of non-prescription items such as vitamins etc.
- ☐ A budget overseas trip every five years, and up to 10 domestic trips each year to visit family, friends, or to holiday.

If this is what is perceived to be the norm for a comfortable lifestyle in retirement, then I feel, many of us are falling short, and if petrol costs rise to anywhere near the CSIRO prediction of $8 a litre in the next decade, one can only speculate at what lifestyle changes will transpire.

Maybe it's time for our education system to harness the survival skills of the old hands before those few who know the skills are gone. Technology is great, but if we can't afford to use it, will it put a roof over our head, or fill our belly? The $8 a litre prediction is a worst case scenario, but if it reaches even half that figure, one can only speculate what lifestyle changes will occur. Just a simple trip to the supermarket for the basic necessities could well be unaffordable to many.

This could well mean then, that the predicted retirement standards for the future will be that you need a million dollars plus in your super just to maintain a roof over your head, a warm bed and full belly. Will this mean, for many of us to survive, we will have to draw on the skills of our ancestors and learn to live off the land?

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Regarding the article, "A name change for St Marys". I can only say perish the thought. I lived there for nearly twenty six years and raised my family there. It was a great place to live, and very good to us. We only left for family reasons, and on buying a home in Launceston, I proudly named it, St Marys.

Progress report on the new building on the western end of Main St.

Innis Tasmania, the contractors working on the new St Marys Fire and Emergency Services facility, appear to be on track, as photo below shows, and, weather permitting, the building is scheduled to be completed by Christmas.

This new building will eventually house the volunteer Fire Services, the S.E.S, and the Tas Ambulance Service.

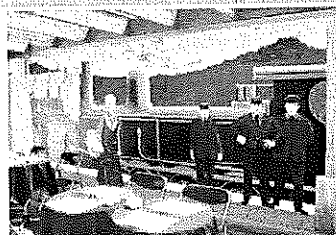

The building will also be an enhancement to the town's western entrance.

Keep up the good work guys. It's starting to take shape.

John, who could apparently run like the wind, came to Tasmania in the mid 1800s and purchased land at Irishtown. He built up a small dairy farm as well as fathering 10 children, 7 boys and 3 girls.

The youngest of his children was well known St Marys resident, Linda King, who made the elusive 100 before she passed away at Media Park, St Helens, a couple of years ago.

John was also the Grandfather of local identity, Geoff King, who was one of the last to work at the St Marys Cheese Factory before it closed in 1969.

St Marys Police report

Recently St Marys Police have been informed by members of the public about local drivers "hooning" and doing burn outs. The fines and penalties are substantial for drivers convicted of these offences. It is important, if you see this kind of driving, to get the registration number and make a statement, to help us charge and convict these drivers and get them off the road for a long time.

Some drivers are still not putting on their headlights in the thick fog we sometimes get though the Valley. It is a legal requirement to have them on just like when it's dark. It also helps with your safety.

Inspector Shane LeFevre will be in attendance at the St Marys Police Station on Tuesday afternoons and is available to discuss local issues with residents and community groups. This will be a valuable opportunity for police to gain feedback from the Community on local issues which police may be able to assist with. To make an appointment please call the St Marys Police Station on 63721010.

Shortly, I will be going on an extended period of leave, and Acting Sergeant Nathaniel ELDERSHAW will be taking over in my absence.

There are 6 !! -- no joke.

OUT OF THE WOODWORK

Wendy Brennan Treasurer 6372 2094

I have started a garden bed beside the Guild shed to give the entrance a little character. I would like to say thank you to Darlene Wright from the St Marys History Room and Gifts, who not only gave the guild a good deal with the purchase of plants but donated some as well. Darlene also took time out from her busy schedule to give me some constructive advice on layout and appropriateness of plants which was much appreciated.

Who said that community groups and commercial vendors in close proximity to each other cannot have a compatible and harmonious union?

The Sausage King entrepreneur and not to forget his assistant Les, through their diligence in selling sausage sandwiches at the markets have raised enough money for the club to purchase a new middle of the range wood lathe. Keep a lookout for some interesting turned items. Thank you to both Reon and Les.

Please try and keep the 6th September free as this is when we celebrate our official opening. I have written to His Royal Highness Prince Charles via his Clarence House press office in London to see if he would officiate at our grand opening.

Please keep an eye out for a raffle which consists of a large wheel barrow filled with goodies. (The barrow is included)

The Guild will be sponsoring the Northern Veterans Cycle Club who will grace our town on the 5th October 2008 with their athleticism and hopefully for many years to come.

The Guild meets on the last Saturday of the month at the Old Railway Goods Shed at 4:00pm.

The Guild is open Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Any other times by appointment.

The Say Cagerattler

Some one commented to me the other day that our 'demographic' had changed over the years. Without being an expert on the term demographic, I think it generally means the make-up of the community, it's aims and objectives and prospective input into that community. You know when you think about it they are probably right, as it happens, to a large degree.

If this is the case, perhaps we need our politicians and councillors to listen to us in some way, to help meet these changes into the future. This strikes me as pretty important.

What happens if a survey was commissioned that encompassed views on employment, health, education, recreation and infrastructure, with regard directly to this East Coast Municipality with us and not a bunch of detached city bound bureaucrats providing our opinions. After all it's us who live here, don't we?

Okay, it might cost a few thousand dollars, but at least a truly representative view on all sorts of things could be gauged for future planning with our 5000 plus residents at the forefront.

Maybe another way to obtain these views would be to follow up on an excellent suggestion some time back by one of our prominent councillors for Community Forums. It makes a lot of sense doesn't it?

Let's face it. It's our bloody demographic and we should have a big say in it for sure.

What do you think?

Tourists have so great a diversity of drives and walks to places of note to choose from, affording so many facilities for the admiration of nature's wonders, that the interest never flags. Of these may be mentioned St Marys Pass : driving to St Helens, the road leads through this Pass. The road was made between 1842-1845 by convict labour, kept in barracks at St Marys Pass Probation Station, situated on the 'grassy bottom' of St Patricks Head. Leading to the Pass, one travels through a short, natural avenue of towering gum trees, known locally as "The Avenue". The road is dotted on either side here and there with the neat cottages of selectors. The clearings around announce the struggle going on between man and forest. In the time of the construction of the Pass this approach was referred to as St Marys Vale, or valley.

On the opposite side of the road to the piece of ground where was sited the Probation Station, about a mile from the Post Office at St Marys, is an old burying ground, said to have been used for the burial of convicts who died on the construction of the Pass. It is covered with thick scrub, and there is not a fence or sign to mark the locality, save a few rough stones that are round one or two graves. A stranger would meet with great difficulties in finding the place, and even then he would not know its former purpose unless acquainted with the fact. It is to be regretted that the authorities are not sensitive enough to prevent this sad place from drifting into the same level as if beasts were buried there.

On reaching the top of the vale, almost without notice the Pass is entered, and the magnificent gorge stretches to the ocean in picturesque grandeur. Down through the trees, hundreds of feet below, glistens a tiny stream; tumbling over the side of a hill a waterfall leaps and rushes, and away towards the ocean are the rollers breaking on black rocks in white foam. The road winds for four miles along the mountain side in an easy descent, turning and looping no less than 50 times, sometimes under overhanging cliffs, and then skirting along the edges of precipices, deep gorges and fern glades. It is a wonderfully graded road, and affords a delightful ride for a bicyclist on a "free wheel", though the Minister for Land recently inspected some parts of it which required attention on account of landslips. The beautiful native shrubs and flowers add enchantment to the scene, and the thick clustering clematis in profusion, diffuse sweet fragrance through the cool zephyrs wafted from the sea. The immense forests of the gorge include ironbark, gums, stringybark, native cherry and sassafras. A few brave settlers have carved homes for themselves in the dense forest, deep down in the bottom of the gorge, doing a little dairying and growing very fine vegetables. When the level is reached, the road branches off to the spacious Falmouth flats on the one hand and continues onto Georges Bay on the other.

Island Range Pass

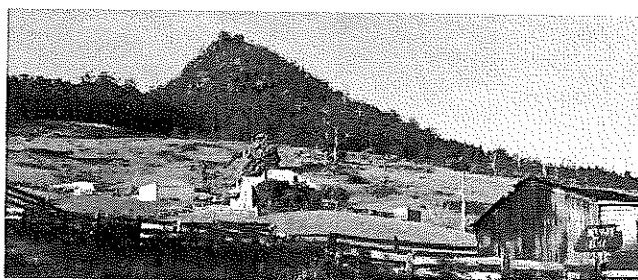

There are other passes beside that of St Marys – Island Range Pass, Four Mile Creek Pass and that on the road to Germantown, all of which afford beautiful seascape views. While St Marys Pass, was completed in 1845, the Pass to the south, Island Range Pass, the road to Picannini, was blazed only as late as 1878 by Mr William Meinas, then a new settler in the district from Prussia. This contribution to his new homeland afforded a much quicker access to Swansea and the East Coast, and has made St Marys the junction of all coastal and inland travel on this side of the island. However, in May of this year, there was a terrific gale in which many giants of the forest were shattered and rooted up, blocking nearly all the roads.

St Patricks Head

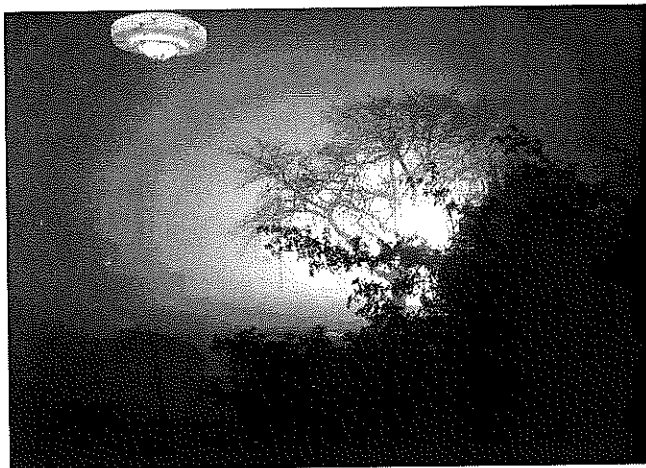

Tourists must not fail to climb St Patricks Head, the pyramid shaped mount which dominates the area as you approach from the east, familiarly known as and irreverently called "Paddys Head". The climb is not a difficult one to those not overburdened with adipose matter; even so, any exertion expended in reaching the summit is amply repaid – if there is no haze – by the gorgeous cyclorama. To reach the top a good track has been cut, the cost of which was defrayed by subscription raised locally. Still a few more pounds spent on it would make it perfect. The height of the mount from the base to summit is estimated at 1200 feet, but the actual height above sea level approaches double that at 2227 feet.

The Rivulet

The St Patricks Rivulet, a contributory to the Break O'Day River and hence the South Esk, winds its sinuous course around the outskirts of the town. Although not carrying any great volume of water as it flows, it has many ponds wherein good fishing may be had; excellent hauls of blackfish, trout and eels may be taken. The bridge over the rivulet near the Roman Catholic Church was closed against traffic for over a month earlier this year, on account of it being unsafe, and vehicles had to be driven over the ford nearby. Representations were made to the effect that the Government would confer a great boon on the residents if a new bridge was to be constructed without delay, which apparently were well received, as a new bridge was started in mid July and completed by the end of the first week in August.

Being a night owl I have always had a fascination with looking up at the night skies and I sometimes try and decipher different stars and constellations.

However, last week while looking at the southern skies (accompanied by my night sweats) I saw something that took me by complete surprise.

I ran and took a photo before it departed with incomprehensible speed. Was I the only One????

The 2008 Medibank Private Active Tasmania Awards
– Open 16 June, Close 31 July 2008

Local governments, schools (public and private) and community organisations from around the state are invited to enter their physical activity initiatives in this year's new-look awards program.

The awards are a fantastic way to recognise schools and communities who are encouraging physical activity in their local area. Over the past four years, the awards have grown enormously in popularity, with Tasmanian communities taking great pride in their physical activity initiatives and showing increasing enthusiasm to share their ideas with the rest of the state.

This year sees an exciting development for the awards, previously known as the Medibank Private Active Towns Awards, with Medibank Private committing to the program for a further three years and increased prize money with up to $30 000 available across five major categories.

Changing the name and categories of the awards acknowledges the diversity of groups, programs and activities running throughout Tasmania, allowing recognition and support of a greater range of initiatives. The new categories and entry forms can be found at www.getmoving.tas.gov.au.

The awards are an initiative of the Premier's Physical Activity Council together with Medibank Private to acknowledge the crucial role that local councils, schools and community groups play in promoting and facilitating physical activity across the state.

Nominations for the 2008 Medibank Private Active Tasmania Awards open on 16 June and close on 31 July 2008.

A presentation ceremony will be held in October to celebrate both the participants and winners of the awards.

You are strongly encouraged to support the 2008 Medibank Private Active Tasmania Awards by either nominating your local community or school or by distributing the entry form to relevant groups in your area. If you would like more information about the awards or copies of the entry form please phone free call 1800 440 026, email business.point@development.tas.gov.au or visit www.getmoving.tas.gov.au

Private Road Closure

Road Works will begin on THE TRACK from Cherrywood Drive to Riverview Road on Wednesday 11th June. This is not a public road, and as such must be sealed during the proposed upgrade.

For safety reasons there will be no public access through this site until approximately 23rd September.

Fieldwicks of St Helens will seal the site immediately. Any access must be with the appropriate safety gear (hard hat and reflective safety clothing.)

The landowner regrets any inconvenience to local residents, but hope that the new road provided will compensate for any inconvenience incurred.

Emergency services have been notified (Fire, Police, Ambulance) and it is hoped that the weather will remain conducive to a timely project and a fine new road for the residents.

Spring bulbs

The response to a previous request for the donation of bulbs for planting along Wombat Walk was very generous and has added colour to the gardens.

It is now a time when gardeners may again be dividing up their bulbs and any surplus ones would be appreciated for planting around the trees along the nature strip in the centre of town.

If you are able to donate some, The Wombat Walk weeding group is at Wombat Walk between 9 and 12 on Wednesday mornings or bulbs can be left with Kelly at Ratha B'zar.

Melbourne Cup Luncheon change of venue

Yes it will be on again this year, but due to the popularity of this function it has to move to a larger venue, to comfortably cope with the increasing number of people wishing to support this major fundraising event for the Tasmanian Lymphoedema Centre at St Marys, and the reputation it has for a great afternoon of fun, food and give-aways.

The TLC appreciate and thank the St Marys Sports Centre for the venue of the Melbourne Cup Luncheon in the past few years, but the Committee will this year move the Luncheon to the Town Hall in the centre of St Marys.

The TLC working committee look forward to being able to seat everyone comfortably and once again present a great day out and the opportunity to catch up with friends.

Watch out for more details as we get closer to Tuesday 4th November, 2008.

The research project, to study the ecology and sustainability of abalone, required students to brave to cold water and survey the shoreline.

Work on the project will recommence in Term 3 when students will gather data, tag abalone, run experiments, classify organisms and map the study area.

Research will be done with the assistance of the Abalone Task Force and University of Tasmania.

Students will also get the opportunity to participate in a Scuba workshop at the school before the project recommences.

Sports Centre News Kackhander

First to golf, and two weekends back the Men's Foursomes Championships were held with a fair field. Congratulations to John McDonald and Bruce Cornelius for a comprehensive win in the Handicap including a terrific 36 on the first day. Runners up were Barry Harrison and Col Payne with several other teams just back from them. In the scratch it turned out to be a tie between John/Bruce and Chris Davern and Jack Viney. Due to time constraints a play off on the day was not possible so this may occur at a later date. Despite this, a big thanks to all who played and made it a great event.

Don't forget the Singles Club Championships commence on July 26th and 27th, so if possible, could players put their names up by this weekend. The championships conclude with the final 36 holes on August 2 and 3. Whilst on upcoming events this weekend sees the Main Street Clothing Day on Sunday July 19th. Thanks so much to Col and Kim at Main Street Clothing for the gesture. It is open to all men and women members. Let's hope for a good field again.

While on thanks we truly thank Grant Faulkner (Caltex) and Chris Davern (BP) for sponsoring a very enjoyable BP versus Caltex Challenge last Sunday. We all had a ball and hope it will become an Annual event. There were heaps of trophy recipients too numerous to mention except for the overall winners Trevor Viney, Damon Viney and Daniel Evelyn. On behalf of the field thanks again to Grant and Chris for the day. Also a special thanks to Kirsten Viney for handling the refreshments and to Macca for organising plenty of the tucker again. It was great.

Still on fun events, and a certain major business proprietor celebrated a milestone birthday last Saturday and generously invited the crew to join him. It was a wonderful night enjoyed by everyone who attended. The birthday celebrant was also joined by family and friends from Hobart. Well into the early hours many were still having a top time. By the end of the night the "Barrow" metric pressure had risen and Mark "wheely" needed his mate Kelso to help him home again or so the story goes. Anyway congrats Mark and we hope you have another 50 birthdays.

On the second attempt the Annual General Meeting took place with about 20 members attending. Through the various reports the club is showing to be in a sound position in the main, thanks in no small way to the wonderful efforts of our volunteers. Finance reports showed also a reasonable position. One major worry though was a decline in membership and the need to try to arrest this trend in coming years. A new committee was elected and it's great to welcome new Treasurer Barry Harrison and general committee person Bobbie Harwood on board. They will be terrific assets to the club. A special thanks to Jack Viney and Chris Davern who despite still giving greatly to the club in numerous ways are having a break from committee roles this year.

The members voted in a small rise in subscriptions across the board, and invoices will be issued for August to October payment period.

Finally to prospective new bowlers. If you wish to try your hand at the game please feel free to contact Nikki Viney on 6372 2552 soon. She can fill you in with details.

If you are also a prospective new golfer you are very welcome to contact the club and we can get you started. You won't regret it. We want to hear from you. More about that later.

Anyway until next time, good hitting and rolling.

Happy birthday to Mark Carrick of IGA Super Value, from all your loyal employees. Mark declined to have his photo taken, but we won't hold that against him. If we did we could have used one from a mug which was produced a few years ago. Happy Birthday Mark.
