Notice of Annual General Meeting

Break O'Day
COUNCIL

The Break O'Day Council Annual General Meeting will be held in the Council Chambers, St Helens on Monday November 24th 2014 commencing 5pm.

John Brown, General Manager

Dear all,

Thank you for your input and comments during Council's review of its Dog Management policy.

At its October Workshop Council considered all your concerns, requests and suggestions. At its following meeting, Council adopted the attached draft policy; for further public submissions as required by the Dog Control Act for the policy and Declared areas. A public notice appeared in the Examiner yesterday.

Figuring highly amongst your input were concerns and needs to do with enforcement, compliance and community awareness, information and education. Council has heard those calls and the draft policy includes a small addition to the Code (section 2) to acknowledge Council has a responsibility in dealing with non-compliance. Those matters are however largely about implementing and operating the policy and will be taken up by Council in future, and hopefully with continuing cooperation across the community and collaboration with partners.

There were also many issues raised for dog access at specific beaches and locations. A number of changes are shown in the attached draft policy. Council has sought to balance the need for public health and safety, wildlife conservation, dog access to beaches and to make compliance and implementation more practical.

Key changes include:

- ◆ extending the seasonal restrictions on many beaches to include October
- ◆ restricted and prohibited areas (many due to the season change above) on Taylors, Binalong Bay, Maurouard, Dianas, Scamander, Four Mile Creek, Chain of Lagoons and Seymour beaches
- ◆ a new off-lead area on Four Mile Creek beach
- ◆ provision to use anywhere fences and signs from time to time to prohibit dogs (primarily to protect nesting shorebirds, such as at Scamander now)

Submissions are invited on the text of the Draft Dog Management Policy 2014 and changes to the Declared areas, shown on the included maps. Submissions need to be made by 16 November 2014; the final policy can then be considered by Council during December.

The draft policy, along with the current one, is available on Council's website at bodc.tas.gov.au/development/animals/dog-management-policy

ST HELENS / ST MARYS COMMUNITY BANK®

The Acting Chairman of the St Helens / St Marys Community Bank® Steering Committee, David Llewellyn, has welcomed local businessman Andrew MacGregor to the role of Chairman of the Committee.

Mr. MacGregor has said that he welcomes the opportunity to be part of what he sees as a very positive development for the local community and expressed appreciation for the strong foundations put in place by previous Steering Committee chairs Heather Butler and David Llewellyn.

The Steering Committee strongly believes Mr. MacGregor's broad experience in business and Local Government will prove invaluable through the final stages of planning and development and the launching of the St Helens and St Marys Community Bank®.

Mr MacGregor said that he was proud to be able to assist with the development of the Community Bank® and also advised that he is very keen to be involved in the distribution of funds to the local community. He said that, based on the experience of other Community Banks® already established in Tasmania, it was not unrealistic to expect that the St Helens / St Marys Community Bank® would be very successful. 305 Community Bank® branches across Australia have now put back $130 million into their communities over the last 16 years.

Mr MacGregor gave examples of projects assisted by other Community Banks® in Tasmania including the purchase of a community bus, funding for medical centres, ongoing work with school aged children, funding for the Bravehearts program, sponsorship of sporting clubs, scholarships and funding for machinery for Men's Sheds.

The Community Bank® Steering Committee believes that it can achieve all required benchmarks by the end of 2014, and that the required Community Survey will be undertaken early in 2015. This being the case, the Prospectus should be available by mid-2015, and the St. Helens and St. Mary's Community Bank® should be up and running in late 2015, and ready to provide a full-suite of banking services.

Anyone wishing to pledge support of the Community Bank® can pick up (non-binding) pledge forms at Eastlines in St Helens or at the St Marys Post Office. e: roger.harlow@antmail.com.au

Pledges reflect Community Support for the Community Bank initiative.

Dear Editor

Recently we have experienced something odd happening with our mobile phone. Late one evening a text message came with the subject "Free MSG". My husband opened it, being curious as one does, and was informed the call had just cost us $10!! We had no idea who sent the message, but our Telstra bill arrived a few days later and showed details of the $10 charge, once again we did not know who the charge was for apart from it being a 'Third Party Purchase'. We have made no such purchase with the company listed and don't know how they had our phone number.

A long phone call to Telstra, with an employee who couldn't have been more helpful, ended up with the charge being refunded to us and future unknown callers blocked on our phone. Unfortunately yesterday another SMS message was received, once again late at night, with the same message but this time to inform us we now owed them $30! In case this is just another one of the scams which seem to plague us these days, details are below, as per our Telstra account.

Third Party Purchases:

Date	Time	Description	Qty	Provider *
7 Oct	11.39 PM	DealShack	1	MIA Pty Ltd.
$10.00

*Any third party trade marks appearing in this bill are the trade marks of the relevant third parties.

Provider	ABN	Contact
MIA Pty.Ltd.	35 094 069 726	1300724406

David made contact with this company and a recording said someone would return his call in two working days! He decided to ring Telstra again instead and was fortunate enough to get in touch with the same employee as before. She rang the company herself and they have agreed to cancel the charges and not make any further calls.

A further SMS message was received while David was still on the line to Telstra, he was advised to open it, and the company notified they would no longer be charging us. We hope.

In future if we do receive a text message marked "Free MSG" it will be ignored.

By the way, we don't have a smart phone or anything highly technical, just an ordinary mobile which we've had for years. Once again we must stress just how co-operative and helpful Telstra have been.

Dear Sir,

I think the comments you directed to a "person you really like and respect" in the last issue of the Valley Voice were in very poor taste. A quiet word in the newsagency at the time would have sufficed. It's very poor form to use your column to berate members of the community.

There are a thousand far more important and pressing issues that you could be addressing other than minor personal grievances.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor

In recent months my husband and I have required assistance from our local volunteer ambulance team, and the staff at St Marys Hospital, more times than we ever would have imagined.

While we have always appreciated the incredible contribution made to our community by these amazing people, you don't really stop to think about their true worth unless you find yourself needing help.

Our ambulance personnel are all volunteers and give their time so selflessly to help us all. Having a quiet night with their families or friends; watching the football or simply having an early night can never be guaranteed. My husband needed emergency transfer to Launceston recently just as the footy was about to start. Did anyone complain? Absolutely not.

Ian and Sally cared for him with great professionalism and good grace about their Friday night being interrupted. They constantly reassured us they were happy to help out, and quickly dispersed the guilt we felt. Despite being busy people, they go home after work anticipating they will have people to care for after hours as well – without a second thought.

As for Doctor Latt and the incredible staff at our local hospital, words are simply not enough. We are blessed with wonderful people who are exceptional in their skills and care of their patients – and just perhaps we could be a little guilty of taking it all for granted.

My experiences have reminded me that our St Marys Community Health Centre/Hospital is the most valuable resource we have in our region and in return perhaps we owe it to them to show our support.

Budget restraints make it difficult for any public facility and while, like many others, I'm not in a position to contribute in a substantial financial sense, I certainly can give a little time by supporting the hospital auxiliary in their fundraising efforts.

There are so many little extras the Hospital Auxiliary helps to fund to make every working day a little easier for the staff, and to help patients with their recovery or treatment. They have a small team who give their time to sell raffle tickets in the hope they can make a real difference in providing equipment and furnishings to make us all more comfortable.

I do hope everyone can see good reason to give their full support.

Thank you to a very special group of people who care for us all.

Jan Saunders, St Marys

Dear Editor

Just wanted to share some amazing news for our community in St Marys ... the ladies who participated in the Stepping Out Program recently have become the State Winners of the video entry in the 26TEN - Tasmania's campaign on adult literacy! What an incredible and amazing gift these people bring to our community - please visit the website and check out their video.

This is the second time - yes, the second time - our town has produced a winner in a Tasmania wide competition! This is such an amazing story for our community and more importantly an amazing journey that these incredible women have bravely stepped out and into! They are indeed worthy of all the praise they should be getting!

More information available for Senator Lambie

October 27, 2014

FEDERAL Lyons MP Eric Hutchinson is disappointed that Tasmanian Senator Jacqui Lambie seems confused about the benefit of proposed national higher education reforms to the State.

Mr Hutchinson said that he would be happy to provide Senator Lambie with more information about the proposed reforms which are going to work in Tasmania's favour not against it.

The Palmer United Party Tasmanian Senator said at the weekend that she did not want special deals on education for individual states and that the Government should be ashamed of proposing to deregulate university fees. But Mr Hutchinson said that the reforms were particularly positive for Tasmania.

"The University of Tasmania as the state's only university is in a wonderful position to compete nationally (post deregulation)," Mr Hutchinson said. "It is an outstanding university which has the benefit of being able to attract research at the top academic level."

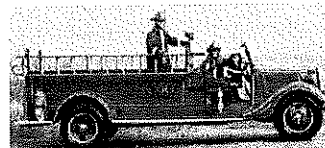

Mr Hutchinson said that the proposed reforms would particularly benefit Tasmania's North-West region which Senator Lambie represents.

"The Federal Government has plans to expand the Higher Education Loan Plan (HELP) - formerly HECS - to sub bachelor and diploma courses which will be of real benefit to many students in North-West Tasmania," Mr Hutchinson said. "It means that there will be more opportunity for young people to go onto higher education, not less."

Mr Hutchinson said that it was important that Government's higher education reforms were passed.

"They will be of real benefit to the people of Tasmania and dovetail nicely into what the State Government is doing in terms of high schools and secondary colleges," he said.

"I hope that Senator Lambie sees that. The University of Tasmania has a monopoly on the market in the State – no other university in Australia is in a better position in a deregulated market than the University of Tasmania."

The Say...by Cagerattler

Sometimes, out of the blue, a topic just happens. My friend in the USA, Louis, was telling me about the Star Spangled Banner and national anthem because I asked about the original flag. He gave me some intriguing information which was indeed interesting. I then began to look at our own flag in more detail than ever before and I became blown away about what it means. The Southern Cross is/was used because this star cluster can be seen anywhere in our country and was an important navigation point for early explorers. The Union Jack is there so that we recall our British Isles history that led to the country we call home, and the large star on the flag is the Commonwealth Star (also known as the Federation Star). It is a seven pointed star to recognise the six founding States and the Northern Territory (at time of Federation in 1901).

We frequently hear, see or read debate on whether our flag, the Southern Cross, needs replacing. Why? It surely does not need replacing, nothing needs removing because each of the three main components - the star cluster, the Union Jack and the Commonwealth Star - are all about where we come from. However, there has to be an addition one day to our banner; we need to recognise the Indigenous ancestors, not separately but jointly on the flag. Is this not feasible and if not why not?

Another detail of our flag relates directly to the star cluster. Have a look at the four larger stars and the smaller fifth one and you'll see that they vary in points. The reason for this is solely for their magnitude (brightness) in the night sky. The more points depicted relates to their brightness. How cool is that? I'd love to see how many different opinions we have about our flag, seeing how emotive this is.

On the Anthem ... Advance Australia Fair. Personally I love our anthem but as I told Louis, I'd love it more if we used the second verse more often because the lyrics contained are pretty important. When New Zealand's anthem is played (pretty good too by the way) they sing it in English and Maori, and takes much longer than the first verse of Advance Australia Fair. I think we should sing both verses of the anthem to pay due respect.

However ... after all this I'd forgotten a very special song written in 1982 that many consider to be our unofficial national anthem (along with Waltzing Matilda) ... the song was written by Iva Davies of Icehouse and is called Great Southern Land. I defy any Australian not to feel pride and like this song. Then there's True Blue by John Williamson, and I am, You are, We are Australian and if you thought about it there are at least five/six classic songs that tell about Australia. E.g. Treaty, Sounds of Then, Beds are Burning, Solid Rock, I Was Only 19, My Island Home ... all very very clearly Australian. There's lots more, but Great Southern Land does it for me as a truly iconic song of our country. As stated above, this all came from a couple of emails between two people about 20,000 kilometers apart, but I'd like to find out what people think about our flag and song or songs ... literally this time. What do you think? Tell me ...

On 26 October the St Helens community celebrated the 57th Blessing of the Fleet

The St Helens Marine Rescue graciously allowed the use of their building to accommodate the Service due to the inclement weather.

Mrs Jovita Walsh opened the service, lead by Rev Alexander Withers, with the song 'Home, Home from the Sea'.

Community members joined with members of the fishing fleet to thank God for the provision of the produce retrieved, and to ask for protection as they go about their work on the high seas.

Rev Helen Phillips from the Anglican Parish of Howrah reminded us of family activities and memories that happen around 'a charcoal fire' - like Jesus and His disciples the night after a fruitless catch.

Jesus told them to drop their nets on the other side and a huge catch resulted in their obedience.

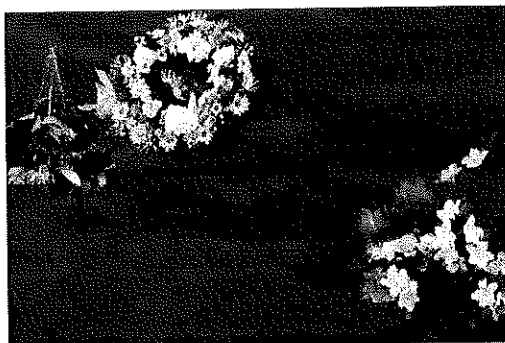

The weather brightened up just at the right time for wreaths to be placed from the wharf as we remembered those who had been lost at sea.

Mrs Walsh sang her second song "Amazing Grace" accompanied by those attending.

Donations of $155 were made to the Marine Rescue as they every day keep a vigil for us all on the waters of the NE - the people who use the sea for commercial or recreational purposes.

Westbury named by Keep Australia Beautiful as Tasmania's Tidy Town for 2014

Selina Bryan

Keep Australia Beautiful has recognised Westbury at an awards ceremony in Sheffield.

In preparing their entry schools, businesses and community groups banded together to promote Westbury and improve its appeal for visitors. Resident Di Robinson helped organise the entry and drove improvements to the Westbury Common.

"I believed that this was the crown that Westbury just needed for a little bit more confidence to work together more and to achieve these kind of projects," she said.

"To get the recognition that Westbury truly deserves, because as a town that's bypassed you have to work really hard and we've got a wealth of assets."

The community driven approach was recognised by Justice Barrie Muir.

"The importance of a community and its working together is just so much and in Westbury it really was really, really good," he said. "A lot of people see Keep Australia Beautiful as litter-based, or as recycling or environmentally. They're important but what's important that I see, that I've seen each year I've gone around, is the person side of it, the things that people do."

The Meander Valley Mayor Craig said it united the town.

"Westbury's a town with a lot of small community groups and organisations and they don't always talk together, not in a bad way but just going off and doing their own thing," Cr Perkins said. "An event such as this and organising a submission into the Tidy Towns actually brings that together and shows the complete picture."

For the second time in three years, Launceston has been awarded the top prize in the Sustainable Cities section.

Mr Muir said Launceston had not rested on its laurels since its 2012 success.

"Launceston I think in some ways is underrated, I think people take a lot of things for granted with Launceston," he said.

"Its parks and its gardens are second to none, they're outstanding."

The promotion of active lifestyles was also recognised.

"Health and wellbeing for Launceston is huge. I mean when you've got the council, the university and other areas running health and wellbeing programs it's great," Mr Muir said.

Trevor Galbraith, from the Launceston City Council, said the community was engaged in improving the city.

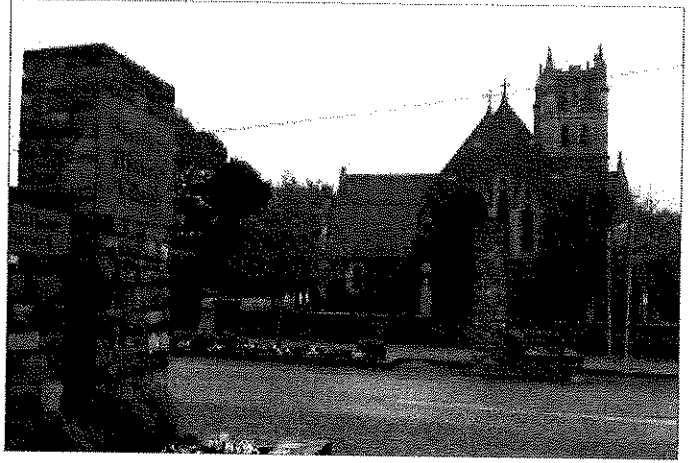

"Launceston's a very attractive city with a lot of heritage, there's a lot of heritage buildings in the city," he said. "And we're very environmental focussed and there are a lot of community groups and community gardens."

Richardsons Beach at Freycinet on the East Coast also received accolades for the way infrastructure has been built with minimal impact on the natural environment.

The Tasmanian winners will compete against interstate towns and cities for the national prize.

Federal tourism figures 'misleading and damaging' to Tasmania

By Jane Ryan

Tasmania's tourism industry says Federal Government figures showing a slump in the number of interstate visitors to the state are misleading and damaging. Australian Trade Commission (Austrade) operated Tourism Research Australia published its annual State of the Industry report this week, claiming the number of interstate visitors to Tasmania fell by more than 5% in the year to June.

It said domestic overnight trips fell in Tasmania (down 5.4% to 2.1m visitors) as a result of a sharp fall in interstate visitors, down 15.3 per cent to 888,000 visitors.

Tourism Tasmania research for the same period shows the number of interstate visitors went up.

It said the total number of interstate visitors to Tasmania for the year ending June 2014 was 909,900, up 8% from 839,300 the previous year.

Tourism Industry Council of Tasmania CEO Luke Martin said the national survey conducted in Sydney was inaccurate, and had the potential to damage investor confidence.

"We want people to be taking a serious look at the potential for Tasmania as an investment opportunity," he said. "The Government's got its expression of interest out for natural tourism developments and when people pick up and show this kind of absolutely skewed and misleading data on visitor numbers at a national level it sends the wrong message and creates confusion."

Mr Martin said Tasmania's tourist industry was booming.

"The image out in the Australian tourism industry is that Tasmania's the leading star, that is the reality," he said. "We have, according to our data, 10% growth, and some of the most exciting tourism products in the country."

Mr Martin called on Tourism Research Australia to use Tasmanian data in its reporting, not the results of the National Visitor Survey. He said data collection methods for Australia's only national tourism survey were inaccurate. "The reality is the Tasmanian data is a far better sample and a far more accurate snapshot of how the industry's performing," he said. "Unfortunately, the method they're using for national figures is giving a misleading picture of how the industry is performing. Particularly to investors and to people looking at investing in Tasmania. The National Visitor Survey is analysing very small samples of data in Sydney and you get massive variations. Whereas the Tasmanian visitor survey data measures people as they leave the state, so it's a far more accurate snap-shop of actual performance."

A footnote published next to the State of the Industry domestic visitor numbers states "the National Visitor Survey results are based on a new dual frame interviewing methodology, causing a break in series. Consequently, readers should use the domestic tourism comparisons with caution".

Austrade was contacted for comment. A State Government spokeswoman said it was aware of the problem. She said the state budget includes $16m, in additional funding for tourism marketing. It expected that investment would assist the state to reach the target of attracting 1.5m visitors to Tasmania by 2020, which the tourism industry says will create 8,000 new jobs.

Tasmanian farmers and environmentalists team up to eradicate feral cat threat

Farmers and environmentalists in northern Tasmania are teaming up to eradicate feral cats blamed for killing more than 20 billion native Australian animals a year, as well as threatening livestock.

The "effective" eradication of feral cats has been named a priority by Environment Minister Greg Hunt, under a new 10-year plan.

But feral cats are not only wiping out native wildlife populations. Farmers report the cats are also killing their livestock.

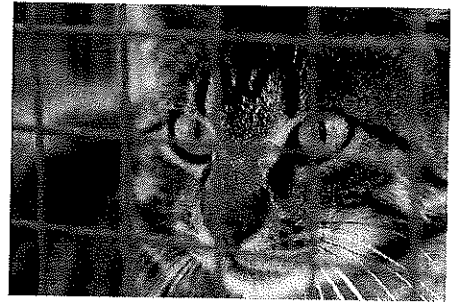

Tasmanian sheep farmer Bruce Young says the diseases the feral cats carry are having devastating consequences. Mr Young has raised lambs on his property for 40 years.

But now the parasite toxoplasmosis, spread by feral cats, means he is losing many of those lambs before they are born.

"We had a lot of ewes abort from about middle pregnancy up until lambing around August 10," he said.

"This year we think we are back 500 lambs due to toxoplasmosis and 500 lambs at $120 [each] is not difficult to work out."

A Helping Hand

When we feel strong and well, it is easy to forget about our own frailties and also the misfortunes, troubles and sickness of others. We are only as strong as is our compassion for those who are weak. For in strength must come the power of understanding and wisdom to act with gentleness and kind concern for those who are not able to help themselves. It is in the ability to empathize that we show true insight and in the ability to aid. And that we show our real gifts. These are the real hallmarks of true compassion. And strength.

Excerpts from genuine undergraduate history essays across Australia. Compiled by Professor Neve R. Stenning-Stihl, here is Australian history as you've never known it:

'In the 1890s strikes the Chinese in Melbourne who owned and ran Laundromats were seized upon as the enemy. All the tailors started using stopwatches. The community that developed on the waterfront created a union conciseness. However, the working class continued to bear the grunt of economic burden.'

'In 1808 the Rum Rebellion saw the overthrow of Governor Blight. The most recognised architects that arrived in the colony were two men by the names of Francis Greenway and Bristol Assizes. You can see their buildings in Macquarie Street. Macquarie Street still reaps with historical content.'

Many Australians viewed their history sheepishly. In 1841 the average number of sheep per shepherd was 450. In comparison, in 1851 each shepherd was in the care of over 1000 sheep. In the 1840s depression the sheep were burned down for tallow and candlemaking. But the introduction of Alien species to the environment compounded the effects of soil erosion with hooves and the tendencies of European animals to up-route fauna.

Drift

During Term 3, 9/10D started an engineering project, making and designing drift trikes. Under the guidance of the most awesome and patient teacher Mr. Emmerton, the group started planning the trikes. Inspiration was found at www.madazztrikes.com and the design was created. The group learnt many new skills such as; MIG and ARC welding, using a pipe bender, metal work lathe and tap and die to create threads - to name a few. The group had to raise funds to buy the rear wheels which are off a go kart front end. The wheels are fitted with PVC pipe which gives the drifting effect to the trikes. The guys plan to organise an Elephant Pass drift trike day next term with help from the local police and the Hobart based trike club Slider Zinc. If people are interested in getting a trike custom made contact the school office to arrange it.

Fingal Football Association Representative Team 1964

The team played the Midlands Association Representative Team 18/07/1964 at Fingal. Most towns in the area were represented in the team. Quotation in the Launceston Examiner, page 22 on 22/07/1964, "Good play – on football and teamwork, resulted in a decisive win for a Fingal Association schoolboys team at the weekend.

Nearly two years ago with the assistance of David Schier, Valley Voice published a photo of a schoolboys football team, which represented the Fingal District Football Association at Fingal in a game against the Midlands Association on 18/07/1963.

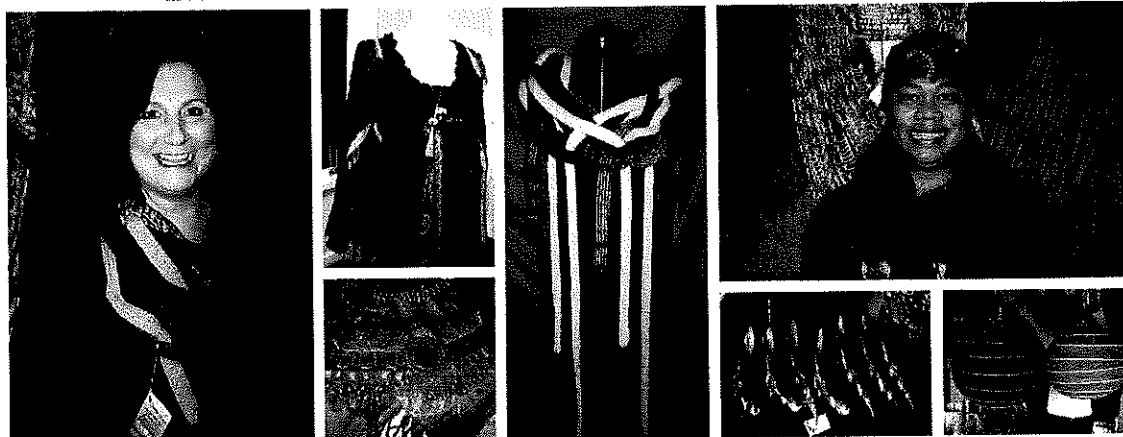

The story accompanying the photo then asked readers to assist with names of players and towns they represented as well as the two umpires.

Robert Jones from Irishtown Rd St Marys was of great assistance in identifying some of the unknown players, as were David and John Schier both formerly of Falmouth.

The Fingal team is back [from left] - G Richards, St Helens, D Schier, Falmouth, K Blair, St Helens, D Bergman, Mathinna, T Targett, St Marys, C Bullock, St Marys, T Haas, Cornwall, V Woods, Fingal, T Rootes, St Marys, L Leedham, Fingal, R Hollis, St Helens, D Freeman, St Marys, Front – R Davis, Avoca, P Goss, Avoca, P Webb, Fingal, D Birrell, St Marys, Greg Barnes, Fingal, Gary Barnes, [capt], Fingal, D Reid, [v-capt.], St Helens, P Death, Fingal, G Arnol, Swansea. The field umpire is possibly Max Church. Boundary umpire, Tony McCulloch, son of the St Marys High School Principal and team coach.

Similar representative teams played against St Patricks College and Grammar Independent schools from Launceston.

ROBYN SUMMERS RETIRES

On Friday 24th October 2014 Robyn Summers hung up her vacuum cleaner cord and put her cleaning trolley away for the last time at the St Marys Community Health Centre.

Robyn has been working at the St Marys Community Health Centre (through all its stages of development) for the past 24 (and a bit) years. But Rob has remained a familiar face at the Health Centre for many of you.

In fact Robyn reflected at her retirement afternoon tea that not only has she worked here for 24 years but she was also born at the facility!

Rob we wish you all the best in your retirement and hope that you don't get too busy being a Grandma and going to football games and remember to pop in and have a cuppa with us all in the not to distant future.

Congratulations Rob and enjoy the next chapter of your adventure!

To the Community with changes comes new faces.

East Coast RC Flyers News - November 2014

Spring has arrived and so have the visitors to the club's flying field. RC pilots from other clubs, and mainland relatives of local club members, wanted to see the flying action. Unfortunately, spring at the East Coast also brings windy days and flying day cancellations. Nevertheless, everyone who turned up to the meetings had a good time.

Another sign of spring is the growing of the club's model fleet, in size and in numbers. Members spend their pocket money on new models and prepare them for the, hopefully, numerous flying weekends during spring and summer.

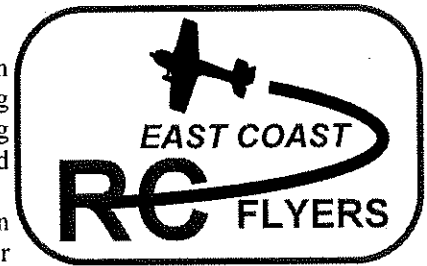

Chris Spencer, one of the visitors, deserves particular mention. He is an accomplished model pilot from Lismore, NSW, who demonstrated his skills in the spectacular 3D flying.

This is a type of aerobatic flying with suitable model planes. Engines with a higher thrust than the plane's weight allow for breathtaking manoeuvres, such as "prop hanging," also known as hovering.

Apart from 3D flying, the sport provides a variety of branches such as helicopters, gliders, jets, scale (replicas of real aircraft), pattern (aerobatics to international standards), and pylon racing (imagine a race track in the air). A novelty, and appreciated by onlookers, is dropping parachutes or lollies.

Some RC pilots prefer to remain within one or two categories, while others choose diversity. Whatever the choice, fun and excitement is guaranteed.

For the next flying day, visit the club's website at: eastcoastrcflyers.org.au

A parrot that spoke English with a British accent went missing for four years, only to return speaking Spanish and asking for someone named Larry, its owner said.

Darren Chick told a Southern California newspaper that he did not know where African grey parrot Nigel had been for four years but that, aside from the language switch, the bird was doing fine at home.

"He's doing perfect," Mr Chick told the Daily Breeze. "It's really weird, I knew it was him the minute I saw him."

Nigel was discovered in the back yard of a couple in Torrance, a city in California, who run a dog grooming business.

The couple originally thought Nigel belonged to another local, Teresa Micco, who had placed an ad for her own missing parrot, the Breeze reported. When Ms Micco realised Nigel was not her bird, she was able to trace him through the original sales records to Mr Chick, who was stunned to recover his lost bird after four years, the paper said.

St Marys Cricket Club, Season 2014/15

After a big season last year the Tigers are back, keen to do well. We have kept the majority of last season's team, and also have had a few new players show up. The Council uncovered the pitch early. New top soil and grass seed was sewn ready for our first home game. Also a working-bee was held to get the nets ready for training. Everything was going well and we decided to start training early. To my surprise there was a strong turn out for the first training session, and this continued on until the start of the season.

Match Report (18/10/14) St Marys vs Pyengana

The season kicked off with St Marys playing Pyengana at Scamander. St Marys batted first and scored 4/138. Great knocks from Craig Freiboth scoring 67 and Roger Salter scoring 32. These were the standout batsmen. In reply Pyengana were bowled out for 105. Craig Freiboth with 4/28 and Josh Mathews with 3/18 were the destroyers with the ball. Great start to the season fellas.

Match Report (25/10/14) St Marys vs Scamander at St Marys

Scamander batted first and scored 6/94 off their 20 overs. Two wickets each for Mick Campaign, Ben Mathew and Roger Salter, our best bowlers. In reply the Tigers scored 0/95 in the 16th over to have a very convincing win. Craig Freiboth (58) and Roger Salter (23) batted very well to get the runs. So after TWO games the Tigers are undefeated, lets keep up the good work boys!

I would just like to mention that St Marys Hotel, C&D Excavations and Caltex St Marys have continued their support of our cricket Club for season 2014/15, thank you for the support. A big thank you to our local fire brigade for watering the grass around our pitch during the dry spell. Thanks guys.

During my absence for the last two weeks a few people have been running the club for me. Bradley Mitchell and Mandy Turner, thanks for your efforts with all the off-field duties, especially the double header at St Marys. I'd also like to thank Craig Freiboth for taking on the coaching role and getting the Tigers two very good wins. I appreciate your efforts. Thank you.

Chris Turner, Captain/Coach

Hello all. The St Marys Pacing Club held its AGM on the 3/10/2014.

The meeting was well attended and the following executive positions filled:

President Mr Micheal Hall
Vice President Mr Allister Woods
Chairman Mr Don Woods

Vice Chairman Mr Lyndon Howorka
Secretary Mr Craig Woods
Treasurer Mrs Karon Brown

Mr Kevin Neilson addressed the meeting on behalf of Tas Racing and congratulated the Club on the successful Easter Saturday meeting. Tas Racing will work in conjunction with the club moving forward, to provide any assistance if required.

The organisation of our New Years Day meeting is progressing nicely. This year our club was offered the opportunity to broadcast the meeting Australia wide through Sky Channel racing, which we know will be a terrific spectacle as St Marys is the only grass harness racing track in Australia. It also gives us the opportunity for our loyal sponsors to have their business name advertised to a larger audience; after much debate on the pros and cons of such a move the Club decided that we would take up the opportunity.

The package by Tas Racing offered the club means that this year the meeting will be a twilight meeting, with the first race starting around 3.30 - 4pm with a finish around 8pm. We will guarantee eight races with a prize money of $5000 (last year some races were only $3000). The Club will provide prize money towards the Cup and the 3yo Country Guineas, making them $10000 and $7000 respectively; the extra prize money is a bonus for all horse owners racing their horses on the day.

The meeting will be broadcast on radio and betting will be Australia wide, instead of just on-course as in the past few years - meaning hopefully more betting royalty returned to our Club.

Our loyal sponsors have again kindly offered to help provide sponsorship for their respective races, and the embroidered horse rug trophies are presented on track for the winning horse are at the embroiderers now.

The usual spectator-friendly Fashions on the Field will be held, as will the Junior Fashion on the Field events.

The twilight meeting later start was a concern, with the fickle weather that we can get at that time of year, but we can only hope we can organise a lovely mild afternoon that would make a great afternoon of exciting harness racing.

As usual our day is only as successful as the wonderful volunteers who kindly offer their time to make the day the success it is. The next New Years Day meeting, a few of our helpers will be unavailable so if you would be able to help out in any way - if only for a short time - any help would be greatly appreciated, also if anyone has any new ideas please contact myself or any of our committee members.

The St Marys Pacing Club would like to pass on our congratulations to Mrs Claire Bean and family on the endorsement of our past Life Member Mr Eric Bean into the Tasmanian Hall of Fame for Harness Racing. A proud and fantastic achievement for Eric's many years of hard work for harness racing in Tasmania. Thanks.

Bowls News

Good win to the local team on both Saturday and Sunday last week. We met Swansea at home on Saturday and played Bicheno at their home ground on Sunday. Sunday was a little wet, making for a very slow ground. I know myself and a few others found it pretty tough going in these conditions. This week there were no bowls and next week we have a bye.

New to Bowls?

Learners are meeting at 1.30pm on Sundays. Don't be shy, we all have to start somewhere, junior players are most welcome.

Social membership is all that's required while learning, so why not come down and give it a go. Great to see one of the learners sign up for pennants. Welcome Diana.

Golf News

With the fantastic weather we are having it's time to dust off your buggy and get swinging.

Why not get down to the club on a Sunday and have a go!

Tee off is at 12.30pm, men and women are welcome to join in these fun days.

Darts News

A convincing win to our players again this week. Thursday 6th, teams meet at the club.

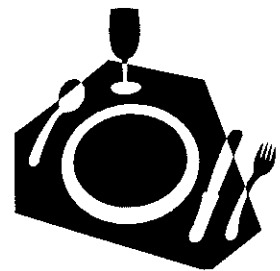

Mrs Maisie Finney's Birthday

Best wishes from the sports club Mrs Finney.

You looked like you were having a wonderful time celebrating your 100th birthday.

A big thank you to our hard working volunteers who catered for this very important function. It is very rare that any club has the privilege to cater for such a milestone.

Friday night is happy hour at the club.

Non members are most welcome.

Jag the Joker has reached a whopping $680.

Roger Donald had the chance but missed out last week. Members draw has not been won for a few weeks, so get down to the club and give yourself a chance.
