National Broadband Network rollout to Lyons April 2, 2015

A number of locations in the Lyons electorate looking forward to the rollout of the National Broadband Network now have an approximate starting date for construction of the infrastructure. Two fixed wireless sites have been selected and approved for construction to start in the second half of this year. Swansea, which has an Optus co-location, is scheduled to go live about mid-year and will then provide wireless backhaul to two green field sites at Coles Bay. Areas where the new wireless towers should be ready for service later this year include Bridgewater, Copping, Dunalley, Maydena and Swansea.

Federal Lyons MP Eric Hutchinson said that he hoped more people in Lyons would take up the opportunity to connect to NBN.

"This is one of the most exciting times to be alive because of all the opportunities created by the digital revolution," Mr Hutchinson said. "The arrival of NBN means that these opportunities will be extended to all Tasmanians regardless of where they live."

The Say, by Cagerattler

Here we go again ... old subject but to us locals, a very important one. In the Fingal Valley we have no real industry anymore, farming is limited, timber industry is in decline, coal mines at present are barely holding their own and our young folk have to move out of the area more often than not to find work. A few years ago we were told that we should be looking at tourism as a viable theme to re invigorate the region.

So bloody annoying to say the least. Hey politicians, how about doing something more often and more practical to help with this saving 'vision' then? First up, what have you done in a tangible way to sell the message of the Fingal Valley and East Coast as a major destination on a trip to Tasmania? Perhaps the closest they've come is a small few hits in the Go Behind The Scenery publications but to my knowledge there hasn't been too much since then ... someone tell me if there has.

The next thing is getting here. Our State and Federal politicians should hang their heads in shame every time they come this way to get our votes - this applies to all parties.

Our Tourist Route roads are an absolute disgrace - I think 'goat track' often gets said.

The St Marys Pass is a historic road for a start, as is the Elephant Pass. These Passes are iconic and part of our history, but neither are given the full detailed historical impact they deserve i.e signposted with appropriate historical data for visitors to take in. Then of course there's the constant 'patch up' maintenance that happens to these two roads. They need a lot more than this and we cringe every time we have a decent rain. This shouldn't be the case in the 21st century, and a real solution for both the Historic Route use and a proper day-to-day commercial / public use is put in the 'too hard basket' all the time. We need the St Marys Pass for the tourist adventure but we need a proper alternate route across the top too - why can't the politicians see this (it would create jobs too..).

Then once you get on the coast you face the patch on patchwork quilt roads all the way to St Helens and beyond. The road especially between Scamander and St Helens is let's just say very average; it's narrow with no passing lanes, winding and slow. That would be okay but it's patchy repair on repair at best. Good safe roads toward a tourist mecca 'vision' would certainly be a good start but "Oh wait"... That'll never happen because it would make too much sense!

My apologies for some glaring omissions to my last topic - these are BODRA, Art to Wear, Man's Cave and Gone Rustic of course. Any others I'm truly sorry if I've forgotten you. All are great contributors ... and from me, thanks for showing faith in our community. None of you deserve to be criticised for HAVING A GO.

What do you think?

Healthy House Walking Group

Monthly Saturday Walks: Due to the use of an EPIRB on these walks, there is a Booking-In process for each participant. Please add your name(s) to the list maintained by Healthy House for each walk. If this is not possible, just turn up on Saturday morning, have your name(s) added to the list and this completed list will be left at Healthy House by the Walk Leader. (Contributor: Wayne Fulford)

Walk details March 4th - Maurouard Beach Walk: Whistling wind awoke us on Wednesday morning, but undeterred a hardy few souls (Dale & Kerry, Gordon and Jans) met at Healthy House to depart for our Wednesday morning walk. We were greeted by the smiling faces of Ron and Wendy, and Brian at the Maurouard Beach car park, and then we set off for our walk. Although we commenced the walk about an hour after high tide there was a broad enough expanse of sand to allow us not to get wet feet unless we walked too close to the water's edge and became too involved in conversation!! We put in a good effort, and chatted away for about 45 minutes whilst walking South along the beach. After a short stop we decided we would not quite get to the mouth of the Scamander River - we turned to head back to the car. On returning to Healthy House we were reminded how lucky we had been with our wind sheltered walk as we watched the sea of white caps on Georges Bay being whipped up by fierce winds. (Contributors: Dale & Kerry Ayers)

March 18th - Burns Bay to Beerbarrel: Despite the overcast and rather damp weather conditions on the morning of Wednesday, eight intrepid walkers of the group set forth from Burns Bay along the coastal track to Beerbarrel Beach. The weather soon improved and short periods of sunshine, spots of rain and lots of cloud accompanied us for the duration of the walk, which was enjoyed by all. Fortunately there was not a strong wind, but the swell of the sea caused some spray from the waves as they broke on the rocky shoreline skirting the walking track. On reaching Beerbarrel, we spent some time on the beach where Ted and Jo pointed out some of the birds there, providing information about them. We then returned whence we came, retracing our steps along the track to Burns Bay. The walk lasted about 90 minutes. (Contributor: Ron Ralph)

Our walkers come from Fingal, St Marys, Beaumaris, Scamander, Binalong Bay and, of course, St Helens and around Georges Bay. A participant list for each longer Saturday walk is kept at Healthy House. New members are most welcome. Please call Healthy House on 6376 2971 or Bryan Edhouse: 0414 987 435 (Contributor: Healthy House)

Cat Management - Break O'Day Council Declared Areas St Marys and Fingal

Council intends declaring areas in accordance with the Cat Management Act 2009 to prohibit cats on Council land where it may seize cats. The declarations are part of a Council cat management program to control feral cats and promote responsible cat management. Feral cats at the St Marys and Fingal Waste Transfer Stations will be targeted initially.

The proposed Prohibited Areas include:

St Marys - the Waste Transfer Station, sports ground, cemetery, Library park and Irishtown Road gravel pit
Cornwall - two reserves

Fingal - the Waste Transfer Station, football ground, South Esk River Park, Fingal Park, Council depot and other small reserves in Fingal

The proposed Cat Management Areas include some private land adjacent to St Marys and Fingal Waste Transfer Stations.

Submissions are invited from the community on the proposed declarations. Submissions must be received by close of business on April 15th 2015 by post (POB 21 St Helens 7216) or by email to admin@bodc.tas.gov.au. Maps showing the proposed declared areas are available at www.bodc.tas.gov.au

Safety in Schools Program 30/3/2015

TasNetworks will this year visit 10,000 primary-school aged children in Tasmania with its revamped Safety in Schools Program.

The education program is a free service which aims to reduce the risk of electrical incidents and prevent tragic accidents by educating Tasmanian children about electrical dangers, as well as energy efficiency messages. TasNetworks team members are trained as presenters to deliver the interactive and educational sessions to schools around Tasmania.

There are two separate programs, for kinder to year two and years three to six.

In 2015 TasNetworks is relaunching the former Aurora Energy program, with the help of some brightly coloured characters called Sparks, her nemesis Shocker and a nifty robot called Socket.

"The Safety in Schools Program aims to reach 10,000 primary-aged school children this year with important messages about electrical safety and energy efficiency," TasNetworks CEO Lance Balcombe said.

"People from across the business have put their hand up to deliver presentations state-wide.

"The program is an important part of TasNetworks' commitment to educating the general public around how to be safe around electricity.

"We have seen many success stories with children taking what they have learnt and reinforcing key safety messages at home."

Children are presented with showbags, activity books, stickers and other items to remind them of TasNetworks' safety messages. Continued next column...

If you would like a TasNetworks Safety and Energy Efficiency in Schools presenter to visit your school, call the TasNetworks switchboard on 1300 127 777 and ask for the Safety in Schools Program Coordinator.

Further information is available on the TasNetworks website: <http://www.tasnetworks.com.au/safety>

Super concessions policy ready now: $10 billion from Greens 31 March 2015

An independent costing requested by the Australian Greens and prepared by the Parliamentary Budget Office shows reducing superannuation tax concessions for the most wealthy would raise $10.16 billion dollars over four years.

"Government advisers have suggested it in the tax white paper, Labor says they'll support it and the Greens have got a costed policy that's ready to go. This would remove a tax haven and reduce the wealth gap between rich and poor, which would be a really great thing for Australians," said Greens Leader Christine Milne. "If the government is serious about raising revenue, not just making cruel cuts to those who can least afford it, then making superannuation more equitable is good in and of itself, and for the budget bottom line. Existing superannuation tax breaks are heavily skewed in favour of high income earners. The system allows super accounts to be used as a tax haven by the rich, and fails to serve those who really need to save for their retirements.

"Progressive tax on super would see those earning under the tax-free threshold pay no tax on their super contributions, instead of the flat 15% that currently applies to all super contributions. Those earning up to $100,000 would pay no more than they currently do, and those earning over $150,000 would pay 30% tax on their super contributions.

"It's great to see this option put forward by government advisers in the tax white paper, and good news that Labor has pledged to support a more equitable system. It's sorely needed," said Senator Milne.

Suncoast Gallery News

"Precious Little Things" feature this month at the Suncoast Gallery.

Yes, there is plenty of jewellery, as usual, but we wanted to focus on the other "little things" our artists and makers produce: You'll find precious little needlework things like tiny scraps of tatted butterflies to decorate brooches, giftcards and special or heritage clothing, handmade by Brenda Haas. There are also precious little beaded things like beaded dolls by Betty Carter, necklets and doilies by Janette Saunders. Tamra Casey makes precious little things in ribbon craft for your favourite little girl. You can also find tiny woven bags and handmade ceramic buttons by Jill Spencer.

There are too many "little things" to list in full, but we must make a special mention of Betty's set of prize winning Bridal Party dolls in the finest bead work. These were awarded 1st Prize at the Launceston Show and will be a real collector's piece!

At the Gallery we are pleased to offer a huge range of locally handmade items for gifting or for treating yourself, plus a great collection of original cards, at very reasonable prices. You will find something for everyone aged 9 months to 90 years. Come in for a browse, we are very friendly and open from 10 - 4pm weekdays and 10 - 1pm Saturdays.

California's toughest gang were Aussies

1851 California's first known gang, the Sydney Ducks (from Sydney, Australia), were blamed by some San Franciscans for a fire in their city which followed an earthquake on May 1. Both events occurred during the California Gold Rush (1848 - '58).

It might well have been arson, and might well have been arson by an Australian: San Francisco had already been devastated by fire on December 24th 1849, and in 1850 on May 4th, June 14th, and September 17th - and it was alleged a man recognized as a Sydney-Towner was seen running from a paintshop on the southern side of Portsmouth Square, just before the building burst into flames. Hordes of Australians started looting once the fire took hold ...

In San Francisco's gold rush days on the 'Barbary Coast', some of the Australian gold diggers (mostly ex-convicts) had formed tribes or gangs with names such as the 'Sydney Ducks' and 'Sydney Coves'.

There were so many of them that the district in which they congregated, along the waterfront at Broadway and Pacific Street, and on the slopes of Telegraph Hill, had come to be known as Sydney-Town, or Sydney Cove.

In June, a Vigilance Committee of 400 influential men was established.

Many Aussies left the district after the June 10th 1851 lynching of John Jenkins, and the lynching of two Sydney Ducks named Samuel Whittaker and Robert McKenzie on August 24.

The vice and crime of the district petered out, but there was a Sydney-Town of sorts for half a century ...

St Marys Markets are held monthly in our beautiful Community Hall; they have been running for many years now and are currently organized and managed by Break O'Day Regional Arts (BODRA). Over the past few years we have had some very dedicated volunteers who have not only ensured the Markets keep operating from month to month, but also plough through the volumes of paperwork that this activity requires.

We would like to extend particular thanks to Sue Nelson and Robina Balzer who managed the regular setting up, stallholder bookings and packup / cleanup at the end of every Market Day for several years, and to Michael Smith, our current Market Coordinator.

Our stallholders offer you art, crafts, books, leatherwork, candles, jewellery, handmade, homegrown, clothing, beautiful things, nice smelly things, upcycled goods and scrumptious edible things. See you there.

An Address of a Soldier's story given at a Dawn Service "The True "Dogs of War"

"I have been asked to give a soldier's story. Although it will be brief, I hope that you too will feel inspired and have a new-found respect for the little four legged troopers I will talk about - the true "Dogs of War".

Australian military forces enlisted the help of man's best friend during World War I, when German Shepherds were given the task of watching over valuable military equipment. In Vietnam the Australian Task Force included dogs in combat tracker teams. Their task was to search the jungles and with their keen sense of smell aid our soldiers in locating the wounded. Sadly, eleven were left behind as it was against policy to return service animals back to Australia.

During World War II specially designed gas masks were designed for the canine division as they pioneered the way for military backup.

Red Cross casualty dogs were also called "Mercy Dogs". These canines were equipped with packs carrying medical supplies, and they would seek out the wounded or give comfort to the dying by staying by a soldier's side. They were trained by their handlers to return with evidence of dying soldiers identification.

Today more than ten breeds of dogs have found a place in our armed forces. The most common are the German Shepherd, the Labrador and the Aussie mutt. The troops currently serving in Afghanistan have even adopted war dogs as mascots for their battalions. Sabi, a black Labrador trained in explosives detection, made headlines when she was recovered after spending fourteen months missing in action.

So what makes the canine useful in the art of war? Among their many duties our enlisted buddies have helped carry messages through the trenches, laid telephone wire, carried ammunition and medical equipment from place to place and many are now used to help comfort soldiers afflicted with Post Traumatic Stress Syndrome.

It would take me too long to list the outstanding achievements of these canine warriors. I only hope that the small speech I have given on this ANZAC day gives all present a new and respected insight to our four legged allies."

Sabi, an explosives detection dog, on duty.

The Daylight Saving story in Australia

In Australia, daylight saving was first introduced during World War I under Commonwealth legislation which, due to wartime emergency, was binding on all the states. It was intended that with less daylight hours, there would be less demand on fuel. During the World Wars, Daylight Saving Time was implemented for the late summers beginning January 1917 and 1942, and the full summers beginning September 1942 and 1943. (Western Australia did not use DST during the summer of 1943.)

In 1967 Tasmania experienced a drought, which depleted their reserves of water. The state government introduced one hour of daylight saving that summer as a means of saving power and hence water. Tasmanians reacted favourably to daylight saving and the Tasmanian government has declared daylight saving each summer since 1968. After persuasion by the Tasmanian Government, all states (except Western Australia and the Northern Territory) passed legislation in 1971 for a trial season of daylight saving. The following year, New South Wales, South

Australia, and Victoria joined Tasmania for regular daylight saving, but Queensland did not do so until 1989. Tasmania, Queensland, and Western Australia have had erratic schedules, often changing their dates due to politics and to accommodate festivals. In 1992, for example, Tasmania extended daylight saving by an additional month while South Australia began extending daylight saving by two weeks to encompass the Adelaide Festival. In some years, Victoria extended daylight saving to the end of March for the Moomba Festival and South Australia and New South Wales followed suit for consistency. Special daylight saving arrangements were observed during the Sydney 2000 Olympic Games. Queensland does not have daylight saving, although they implemented it from 1989 to 1992 before it was voted down. Although DST was well received in South East Queensland, it was a major inconvenience to the rest of the state. As resident Samantha Rannard commented, "You do not need an extra hour of daylight when it's 98% humidity and 35 degrees Celsius in the tropics!" On the Gold Coast, which borders New South Wales, some businesses do adopt it but many do not.

In response to the problems caused by the lack of uniformity, a Private Members Bill, the National Measurement (Standard Time) Amendment Bill 1991, was introduced into Federal Parliament in May 1991 by Ron Edwards, Member for Stirling in WA, to define a national system of time zones and Daylight Saving Time for Australia and its external territories. But in March 1992, the Federal Government decided not proceed with the bill, and the setting of time zones and daylight saving remains the responsibility of the state and territory governments. The lack of uniformity of daylight saving in Australia continues to cause significant problems for the transportation and communication industries. It also reduces the number of hours in the working day that are common to all centres in the country. In particular, time differences along the east coast cause major difficulties, especially for the broadcasters of national radio and television.

Western Australia enacted a three-year trial of Daylight Saving Time beginning in December 2006 and ending in March 2009. The issue of Daylight Saving Time was placed on the ballot in May 2009, and almost 56 percent of Western Australia voters gave DST a thumbs down. Rural areas of the state were overwhelmingly against the measure, and younger voters split fairly evenly for and against. Even DST advocates don't expect another vote on the issue for at least a decade.

New South Wales enacted legislation in 2007 to have DST commence at 2:00 a.m. on the first Sunday in October and revert back to Standard Time

MATHINNA.

FOOTBALL CLUB BALL.

The semi-final annual ball held in the Mathinna Hall on Wednesday evening last, under the auspices of the Football Club, was a great success from every point of view. The building looked very pretty with its decorations of maroon and gold streamers, ferns and masses of flowers. The hall was crowded, dancers and visitors coming from Fingal, Storey's Creek, Launceston, Mangana and surrounding places. The grand march was a feature of the hall, and was led by Mr. S. Williams and Miss Jessup. Many beautiful dresses was seen amongst the dancers. Most dainty and appetising supper was arranged on the stage, which was decorated by the ladies' committee. Mesdames Egan, Nash, Shaw, Dinneen, Wrangmore, Misses Clancey, Thomason, Wing and Jessup. The hon. Secretaries (Mr. and Mrs. Reg Egan) are to be congratulated upon the success of the function. Delightful dance music was played by the Mathinna orchestra. The takings amounted to £14.

A stunning adventure film about following the dream of surfing the perfect waves of the remote arctic winter. Inge Wegge (25) and Jørn Ranum (22) spent nine months on a remote, arctic island in a cabin they had built out of driftwood and other cast-off materials that washed up on shore, and ate expired food the stores would otherwise have thrown away. But the two most important items the boys brought with them? Their surfboards.....

THE EARTH TREMOR*Flinders Island Agitated, Sound as of Big Guns

Further reports concerning the earth tremor felt in Tasmania on Saturday morning show that the disturbance occurred at 10.45 on Flinders Island and continued for three minutes. It came from a north-easterly direction, and travelled southwest, with a rumbling sound as if big guns were being fired. Houses with their contents were shaken and windows broken, whilst glass-ware was rocked from shelves and pictures tumbled from walls. Chimneys were cracked, and residents were so frightened that they rushed from their homes. The S.S. Coliboi tied up at Lady Barron Wharf, with tourists on board, shook as if her engines were racing. The barometer reading at the time of the occurrence was 29.50. Twenty years ago a somewhat similar shock occurred, but was not of so long duration. The geological formation of portions of the island show clear indication of volcanic eruption.

EXPERIENCES ELSEWHERE.

A sharp earth tremor was felt at North Dromedary at 11.28 on Saturday morning, accompanied by a continuous rumbling noise. The tremor lasted about 45 seconds. Doors, windows, and crockery were shaken, and an alarm clock hanging on a dresser continued to swing for several minutes. The disturbance certainly was the strongest felt in the district.

An earth tremor was felt at Collinsvale on Saturday morning shortly after 11 o'clock. A roaring noise was first heard, and windows in houses rattled. Men working in the bush saw trees sway violently.

LAUNCESTON HOSPITAL. THE DAMAGE.

Details of the damage caused at the Launceston Public Hospital by the earthquake shock on Saturday indicate that the shake must have been particularly severe in that locality. Twelve feet of bricks tumbled off the top of the chimney over the laboratory, knocking holes in the roof. A coping slab weighing about 3cwt. fell off the chimney over the operating theatre, and made a hole about 2ft. square in the slate roof of the anaesthetic room. Some of the coping fell about 40ft. into the yard, where luckily there was no one passing at the time. Plaster came down in one of the rooms in the nurses home.

KELLEVIE.

A severe earth tremor was felt at Kellevie on Saturday morning.

BRACKNELL.

About 11.25 on Saturday morning Bracknell experienced the most severe earth tremor within memory. It was accompanied by a low rumbling noise resembling thunder, and lasted about 40 seconds. The morning had been very dull, and heavy rain had fallen at close intervals.

PYENGANA.

Accompanied by a roar as of a gale Pyengana experienced two sharp earth tremors about 11.25 a.m. on Saturday. Houses were severely shaken and residents became rather excited, but no serious damage resulted.

MATHINNA.

Following the changeable weather conditions a severe earth tremor occurred at Mathinna on Saturday morning at 11.25. Buildings shook and crockery rattled. Many people became afraid, left their houses, and hurried outside. Old residents say it is the severest shock ever experienced.

TRIABUNNA.

About 11.30 a.m. on Saturday a fairly severe earth tremor was experienced at Triabunna. It was preceded by a rumbling noise, and the shock was sufficient to make windows, crockery, etc., rattle. Before people quite realised what was happening the tremor was over, as it did not last more than a few seconds.

ARCADIAN SIDING.

A slight earth tremor occurred at Arcadian Siding on Saturday at 11.20 a.m. Crockery was noticed to shake and floors moved. The tremor lasted about 10 seconds.

The Dolphins of Monkey Mia

Monkey Mia is a popular tourist destination located about 900 km north of Perth, Western Australia. The reserve is 25km northeast of the town of Denham in the Shark Bay Marine Park and World Heritage Site.

The main attraction are the bottlenose dolphins that have been coming close to shore for more than fifty years. Rangers from the Department of Parks and Wildlife (Western Australia) carefully supervise the Monkey Mia Dolphin Experience.

Mia is the Aboriginal term for home or shelter, while the Monkey part of the name is allegedly derived from a pearling boat called Monkey that anchored at the now Monkey Mia in the late 19th century, during the days when pearling was an industry in the region. However, the Geographic Names Committee, hosted by Landgate (The Western Australian Land Information Authority) has stated that the most likely origins of the name are that it was included in a list of Aboriginal names and their meanings supplied by the Geraldton Police Station in approx 1899 - the meaning of the name is given as "Salt or bad water", or after the pet monkeys owned by early Malay pearlers who camped at the location, or as a colloquialism for "sheep", or that it was named for a schooner called Monkey that arrived in 1834.

The area was originally gazetted in 1890 and used as a base for the pearling and fishing industries. In the 1960s, a fisherman and his wife began feeding Bottlenose Dolphins when returning with their catch. As news of the dolphins coming inshore spread, visitors started to come to see them. In 1985, an information centre was built, and in 1988, a special state government grant was provided to develop roads, carparks, and facilities.

In November 1990, the waters adjoining Monkey Mia were declared a Marine Park and are managed by the Department of Parks and Wildlife.

In recent years, more attention has been given to the Aboriginal roots of the area and their knowledge of the local land. For visitors, the most visible evidence of this change is the culture walks, where visitors are taught to respect the land.

Monkey Mia is also the lab location for extensive behavioural and biological research on bottlenose dolphins. Drawn to the area's famous 'beach dolphins', researchers Richard Connor and Rachel Smolker started the Monkey Mia

Dolphin research project in 1982. Their research interests quickly expanded to include hundreds of the nearby Shark Bay dolphins. Since this visit, scientists have come from prestigious institutions in Australia, North America and Europe.
