TALKING POINT

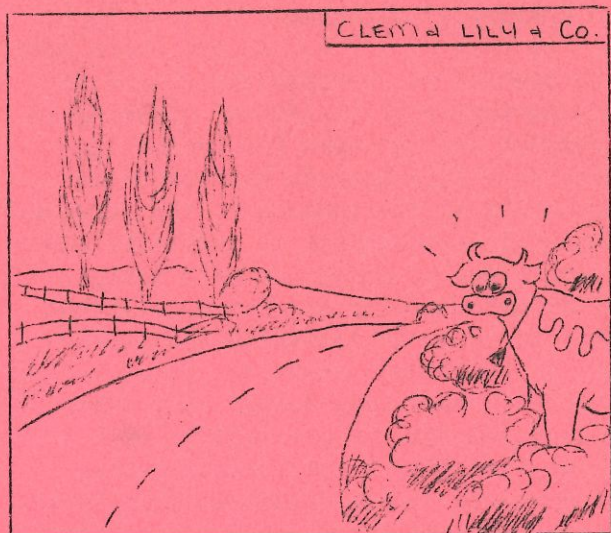

Flammability of Childrens' Clothing

Statistics show that children being burnt by the ignition of their clothing is one of the most common and most serious accidents from which children suffer. Approximately 10 children per week, during the winter months, are treated for burns of this type in the Royal Hobart Hospital alone. Many of these children are burned so severely that they require hospitalisation. Thirty children in the age group 0-12 years were admitted to this one hospital during 1972, and two thirds of these children were under the age of 5 years. These children spent an average period of 6 weeks in hospital, which indicates that the majority would have severe scarring and in some cases physical handicaps for the remainder of their lives.

In the majority of these cases the accidents occurred in the home, as the result of children playing near unguarded fires and heaters and hence, a large number of these burns can be attributed to lack of care by parents. However, it is difficult to protect children, particularly in the age group 1-5, from coming in contact with every source of heat. This points to the fact that more care should be taken by parents in the purchase of clothing for children, such that all garments worn by children are, as far as is possible, flame resistant, should they come in contact with a heat source.

Most textiles used in clothing will burn if in contact with a flame or other heat source for a sufficient period. However the risk of injury from clothing fires may be significantly reduced by the use of textiles which, firstly, do not ignite easily and which, secondly, burn slowly.

The first consideration should be, therefore, to lower the risk of ignition of a fabric or garment. Fabrics have a high pile, i.e. 'fluffy fabrics', are far more prone to catch alight than fabrics which have no loose fibres on the surface. This indicates that acrylic fabrics such as brushed nylon, courtelle, acrilan etc. are more prone to quick ignition than smooth fabrics such as wool, cotton and linen.

"LOST AGAIN - SO MUCH FOR COWBELLS!"

Loose, flowing styled garments such as night-dresses and flared trousers, and garments with frills and applique attached to the edges are also far more prone to ignition than form fitting garments with tapered wrist, waist and ankle openings. The reasons for this are, that it is more difficult for the bulk of the garment to catch alight than it is for a trimming or a loose edge. Also the child is more conscious of heat, when close to his body than he is of heat applied to a loose edge.

The second factor to consider is the way in which various fabrics burn once ignition has occurred. The most dangerous category of fabrics are those which melt while burning, causing the formation of molten droplets which adhere to the skin and cause deep burns. Acrylic fabrics are the most dangerous in this respect. The second category of fabrics are those which, once ignited, flame readily and although they reduce the garment to ash, the flames cause severe burns. Cont' p 2

Cotton, linen, rayon and some synthetic fibres belong to this category. The third category, and perhaps the safest type of fabric, are those that once ignited, tend only to smoulder and self-extinguish. The natural animal protein fibres, such as wool and silk belong to this category, as well as certain man made fabrics which have been chemically treated to inhibit burning.

Considering therefore, both these aspects, ease of ignition and manner of burning, natural fibres such as wool and silk are by far the most safe fabrics for use in childrens' clothing.

As yet there have been no control or restrictions placed on the manufacturers of childrens' clothing in this respect and the onus for protecting children from fire hazards has rested on the shoulders of the consumers, the parents. The Standards Association of Australia has laid down a set of rules for safe designs in childrens' clothing and has established a number of tests to determine the flammability of childrens' clothing. However, manufacturers need only voluntarily submit to these standards and may still market dangerous garments. Manufacturers who do submit garments to the Standards Association and whose garments comply with these standards, are able to use the seal of this Association on their Trade labels.

Legislation has been considered to force all manufacturers of childrens' clothing to submit their garments for this form of examination and to force them to label their garments appropriately to warn the consumer. However, enforcement of such legislation as this is not for-seeable in the near future.

The cottage industry which has recently been set up in Fingal manufacturing childrens' dressinggowns under the name "Break-O-Day Gowns", has been from the outset very conscious of these problems. They have, therefore, used in their garments only a one hundred per cent wool fabric, a fabric known as "Doctor" flannel. This company have also designed their dressing-gowns in such a way as to reduce all cuff and hem diameters to a minimum to reduce risk of ignition. The trimmings used on the dressing-gowns are similarly designed to reduce fire risk. Several garments produced by the "Break-O-Day" company are at present being examined by the Standards Association of Australia and when the garments are passed by this Association, this company will be able to use the seal of the standards association on their company label as an indication to consumers that the garment is, as far as is possible, a low fire hazard garment.

LETTERS

Dear Sir,

The American maths teacher- cum humorist Tom Lehrer commended Australian efforts whilst urging us to try even harder to reach U.S.A. high ratings in divorce, suicide and crime.

And now little Tasmania seems to have achieved a minor Watergate scandal all on its own! The capital city apparently has nothing to compare with our potential mess which simmers so promisingly down south.

Yours faithfully,

O.U. Bug.

Letter from Editor & Staff,

A LEGEND

An old German legend tells of a lonely cobbler who had been told that Christ would visit him on Christmas Eve. He cleaned his shop and filled it with garlands of green. He was very quiet as he waited, fearing not to hear Christ at the door. A little noise sent him to the window. It was only a beggar, stumbling bare-foot in the snow. He brought him in, bathed his bruised feet, gave him a pair of boots and a coat to keep warm. But where was the Christ?

A falling twig took him to the door again, but there was only a bent old woman looking for a place to rest. He let her sit in the chair he had prepared for his guest, and he gave her tea. When she was gone, he was saddened to find it was late in the day, and still Christ had not come.

He heard a whisper, which he found came from a girl who was lost. Out into the night he went to take her home. He was heavy-hearted as he returned to his lonely room. He knelt to pray and cried out, "Dear Lord, why did You not come as You promised?"

Then came a gentle voice: "Three times I called on you this day. I was the beggar who had no shoes; I was the woman you fed; I was the lost child you returned home. Inasmuch.....ye have done it unto me."

EIGHT BALL

Sporting history was most likely made at the Bay View Hotel on Friday 24th when Pyengana and Scamander played their third draw in a row in the preliminary final. Fortunately before the game started it was agreed that if another draw occurred, the two Captains would play the best of three to obtain a result. Scamander Captain, Wes Stone won two straight to defeat Rod Rattray before an enthusiastic crowd. Rod played a great game and all players were later congratulated by Bay View Captain, Mr. Richards, on the sporty manner in which the three matches had been played.

The grand final will be played at Pyengana on 1st September when St. Helens R.S.L. play Scamander. R.S.L. are an experienced team but Scamander can be very determined and could cause an upset.

FISHING NEWS

Scamander Angling Club held a surf contest at Wrinklers Beach last Sunday. In spite of a cold South-East wind, thirty anglers took part and most caught a few fish. Winner was Brian Mallinson, second was Vince Oliver and Jack Sweet was third. The ladies trophy was won by Mrs. M. Oliver and Michael Sweet won the junior prize. Next event will be held at Wrinklers on Sunday 23 September from 2 to 7 p.m. Nothing has been heard of the St. Helens Club since July, but no doubt they will be conducting a contest before long. St. Helens Game Fishing Club will begin planning for the next Tuna season at a Committee meeting next Saturday.

ST. MARYS GARDEN CLUB

St. Marys Garden Club held their August meeting on Wednesday 15, with a fair attendance. Competition was very keen in all sections, with our junior members taking a very active part.

A demonstration in the art of colouring dried flowers and grasses was given by Mr. Alf Faulkner and a demonstration of a decorated bottle by Mrs. Rattray.

A demonstration for the Junior section was given by Miss Heather Stewart.

On Friday 7th September the Junior members will hold a cent drive in the street at St. Marys. Please spare a few cents to help these young members keep their club.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEWS

Silver Threads Senior Citizens Club entertained the Golden Years Senior Citizens Club from Cornwall to a social afternoon of indoor bowling. 32 players took part and some very good contests were enjoyed by all those present.

The afternoon was rounded off with a lovely afternoon tea.

The grateful thanks of the Silver Threads Club goes to the committee of the Memorial Hall for their generous offer of the Hall free of charge.

This is greatly appreciated.

THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE

Every two years Reece High School students and staff manage to recapture the wit, gaiety and energy of Gilbert and Sullivan. Now the school is bringing its production to St. Marys. This Saturday night we are to be treated to the timeless delight of "The Pirates of Penzance", complete with its villains, nutty old men, and damsels in distress, coupled with the characteristic verbal sparring matches and catchy songs.

Secondary students at St. Marys have transformed the school stage to cope with the cast of sixty and, although Reece High will bring one backdrop, most of the set has been created under the direction of Mrs. A. Lynch. The St. Marys Dramatic Society has assisted with lighting which has been organised for this production by Mr. B. Forsyth.

All patrons are assured of an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

ST. MARYS COMMUNITY CONCERT

A true spirit of ecumenism was displayed at a public meeting, called recently to arrange a Community Concert in St. Marys. A member of a certain denomination suggested that another denomination receive the proceeds because it appeared that it had the greatest need. This was lost, however, and a decision was made that the profits be shared equally between the Catholic, Anglican and Methodist churches. We agree with the decision made; but the fact remains that the selfless gesture of this person will be an inspiration to all concerned to make this concert a real community effort for a worthy cause and that no church will be left "wanting". The Concert will be held in the Community Hall on Friday 16th November at 8 p.m.

PRESS RELEASE

TASMANIAN HYDATIDS ERADICATION COUNCIL

Mr. David Taylor of "St. Johnstone", Campbelltown is the new Chairman of the Tasmanian Hydatids Eradication Council. Mr. Taylor is a well-known Midlands grazier and has been associated with the hydatids campaign for over ten years. He was appointed a member of the hydatid sub-committee of the TFSOA in 1962. This was the first voluntary organisation to be formed in the state to combat the disease and it was instrumental in forming some of the first local hydatid committees.

Mr. Taylor assisted Dr. Beard in organising the first three campaign meetings at Campbelltown, Ross and Oatlands. During the 10 years of the campaign he has been actively involved in the council both on the Executive and as Deputy Chairman.

He takes over the Chairmanship from Mr. D.L. Burbury of "Wyndham", York Plains. Other office bearers elected at the Annual General Meeting last week were:- Mr. E.A. Cameron, Evandale (Deputy Chairman), Mr. R.W. Burbury, Ross (Treasurer) and three executive members: Messers. D.L. Burbury, York Plains, B.P. Draken, Launceston (P.& F.) and R.S. Allwright, Green Ponds.

Preliminary Final at Fingal:

Weather: Perfect
Gate: $376
Umpire: Padman, Good exhibition
Football: First class
Result: St. Helens by 5 points

The more even team won after a great struggle. The standard was the best seen in the Valley since last years Grand Final. The one sour note was the ill prepared oval. A naturally good ground with plenty of atmosphere was badly in need of mowing, one impartial supporter wore his overalls and took his Roo dog, but the dog, a notorious squib wouldn't venture into the long grass. We don't know if there was any game about or not. On the same theme we have worked out why there are so many one eyed barrackers at Fingal, their eyesight has been strained by trying to read the scoreboard. These faults plus an almost invisible diamond must surely jeopardise Fingal's chances of getting a final in future years, unless there can be some guarantee that the ground will be prepared to a standard that the players and paying public expect and deserve.

Back to the match, the Bay didn't have one passenger. Their most prolific kick getter was probably Greg Board with Stephen Dwyer not far behind. A lot of credit must go to Derek Chapple for getting on top of the Associations best player in Lewis, early in the game and setting the pattern for the rest of the day. Wayne Freeman led and marked brilliantly. Finished with six goals seven points, but should have had at least ten goals. How about trying a flat punt from close in Wayne? if you hook your first couple of drop punts. A lot of the credit for Wayne's success must go to Rodney Krushka, Brian Barr and Doug Coker who passed to him with great accuracy. On the backline the Franks boys, Graham Stone, Felmingham and Lionel Freeman were solid. I could mention all the Bay boys but I'll leave it at that and try and pick the best of the dogs who were beaten but not disgraced. Whitten was probably best on the day, but Dowd, Luke and Radford did well and Pike and Kean battled well all day. Congratulations to every player who took the field and good luck to the Bay next Saturday.

Reserves:

St. Marys returned to their old form with a good win over Avoca and will take their place in the grand final against traditional rivals - Fingal.

Thirds:

A bigger stronger Swansea side defeated an enthusiastic talented Fingal who almost made up for their lack of size with determination and ability.

Grand Final Day:

The big St. Marys ground will suit Campbelltown and even though the Swans are on the crest of a wave I think that they will be in trouble against the pacy Robins. If Anthony returns it will make things a bit easier because it is usually a mistake for rucks to change at centre half forward on a big ground, even though it proved most effective at Fingal. I tipped Campbelltown for the flag early in the season so I guess that I'll have to stick with them. I'm far from certain so come and see for yourselves. It will be worth going just to see the best two full forwards in the Association in Viney and Freeman in action. Don't miss it.

Reserves:

Fingal should beat St. Marys who are not likely to produce two games in a row like the last one, particularly if the injured John Margison and Noel Haas don't front up. It was pleasing to see Captain Brian French urging on his team. Hope it won't be too long before he throws away the crutches.

Thirds:

St. Marys, undefeated for the season don't want to go in over confident although I think that they will be too strong for the gallant Swansea.

All that is required for a really great day is reasonable weather and a big crowd.

Fortnight beginning August 31, 1973.

ARIES: March 21 - April 20

A relative who is always intruding into your affairs may succeed in making you envious and desirous of things you can't have right now. Turn a deaf ear to this person. Best days 1st, 6th and 12th.

TAURUS: April 21 - May 20

There can be disappointment connected with your job this month. It can be traced to younger people who are causing problems. Avoid argument with anyone younger. Best days 2nd, 9th and 13th.

GEMINI: May 21 - June 20

A young neighbour may be insolent but not really dislike you. This person can enjoy a good argument and may be trying to draw you into one. A time for making friends and being joyous. Best days 2nd, 3rd & 8th.

CANCER: June 21 - July 22

Guard health from dampness, keep a wholesome diet, and avoid late hours. You need rest this month and must be self-disciplined in order to obtain it. Feel inspired to do some creative work. Best days, 4th, 5th and 12th.

LEO: July 23 - August 22

A new neighbour may be quite curt in speech. Do not even try to be friendly here, be just curt. If you shop for clothes you can become greedy and buy too many, just to be ahead of others. Best days 7th, 11th and 12th.

AQUARIUS: January 20 - February 18

Your health can be run down - you may need some very special care, perhaps hospitalisation. Bills can run up and you can become depressed. Have faith, all will work out in time. Best days 1st, 6th and 10th.

VIRGO: August 23 - September 22

You may have much enjoyment for the first week and then a return to work. You can find yourself in a definitely leadership position from now on in and may wonder how you ever got there. Best days 2nd 8th and 13th.

LIBRA: September 23 - October 22

Seek dependable companions; do business only with those who keep their word. Idleness and pleasure are your foes now and you could all too easily yield to them. Best days 1st, 9th and 12th.

SCORPIO: October 23 - November 22

You may be called upon to give special services to church organisations or school matters. If you are approached for special work in the community try to please. Best days 5th, 8th and 11th.

SAGITTARIUS: November 23 - January 21

Be confident and you will make a good impression. Steer by intellect rather than emotion in any conference you have. You may get yourself into a fine position by giving the right answers to the right person. Best days 2nd, 8th and 10th.

CAPRICORN: December 22 - January 19

You may break your bond with an organisation due to sheer boredom but try to excuse the act on some other grounds. It would be wise to think what this break may do. Best days 3rd, 6th and 10th.

PISCES: February 19 - March 20

Keep complaints to yourself. People will otherwise get the wrong impression of your personality. Avoid insisting on your own way of doing things. It can cause undesirable results. A time for making new friends. Best days 4th, 9th and 13th.
